Thirteen Injured When Explosion Wrecks Shaft In New Mexico

Crews Making Desperate Effort to Rescue Entombed Workers

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—(United Press)—Seven men are dead, 13 are injured and eight more still in a mine at Madrid, 40 miles from here, following an explosion late Saturday afternoon.

Thirteen men taken from the mine were brought to hospitals here.

There were about 40 men in the mine when the explosion occurred. It was caused by the accumulation of coal gas, about half of the men were unharmed.

Crews were working Saturday night to rescue the eight men believed to be still in the mine.

Of the injured men in the hospital here, two it is expected, will not live until morning. They were severely hurt.

The mine owned by The Cerrillon and Madrid Coal Company, of Albuquerque, was wrecked.

FUEL BOARD MAY BE ABOLISHED

Donahay's Ax Aimed at Administration, Rumor Says

COLUMBUS, — (United Press)—Will Donahay, Ohio's fuel administrator, when he becomes governor in January, or has the administration sufficiently fulfilled its purpose to be disbanded?

That question was a matter of considerable conjecture in political circles here Saturday night, in view of developments of the last 24 hours.

Fuel Administrator Clarence Neal has declined to deny or affirm rumors the administration is about to be demolished. But the rumors still persist and Neal is giving out statements of the accomplishments of the administration which are construed by many to indicate that he feels his work is at an end.

REPORT OF RUMORS

Further support of a speedy abandonment of the administration is seen in what Vice Donahay here, following Democratic leaders and the Ohio seekers has been saying behind closed doors of his political conferences. It is understood he has been known to several Democratic leaders that he intends to be very little of the structure of Governor Donahay's administration after he takes office.

The fuel administration may be a work that is doomed to fall under Donahay's axe.

If it becomes certain, it is said Governor Davis will abolish the administration before he leaves office.

Neal declared he believes there is little need for fuel prices adjustments. Coal prices, he said, have gone down and the market is lower. Even if the administration does go completely out of business, he pointed out, the interstate commerce commission will continue to force its order giving authority to coal.

The opening up of several Ohio coal ports where large stocks of coal have accumulated will further relieve the state's coal situation, Neal said.

DIXIE HIGHWAY SOON TO BE COMPLETED; CONTRACTOR SECURES BRICK SUPPLY

Completion of the Dixie Highway from Lima to the Auglaize coast was assumed Saturday, when Ernest Heil, Lima contractor, closed a deal with the Metropolitan Brick Co., Walpole, Pa., for more than a million blocks.

Heil announced his purchase Saturday, following his return to Lima after a week's search for brick. He has 18 cars already on the road, will reach Allen Co. sidings Monday. The 10 cars carry 177,000 brick, sufficient to complete one-third of the mile and a half now unfinished. He will receive the balance at the rate of four carloads a day until the road is completed, he said.

Heil expects to lay the brick in less than two weeks.

TEMPLE WALL IS

NOVEMBER CHILL

Volunteer Force Tacks Paper on North Side of Tabernacle Saturday Night After 1,500 Shiver Thru Service—Biederwolf's Sermon

The rat-a-tat of hammers was heard after 10 o'clock Saturday night at the Biederwolf tabernacle, as a force of volunteer workers from the congregation assembled outside the big pine temple at the close of the service, to assist in covering the north wall with heavy paper, to exclude the icy chill of November winds.

Fifteen hundred people shivered thru the service, seven big heaters proving inadequate to offset the onslaught of the lowered temperature outside, augmented by an icy wind from the north.

The cold snap which hit Lima Friday night and continued thru the day had its effect on the temperature within the tabernacle, as well as upon the attendance. Those who heard the Biederwolf sermon were uncomfortable thru the service. The men did not remove their overcoats and the women hovered about the big furnaces, which were stoked to the limit with fuel.

The evangelist expressed his regret that the temperature could not be raised to a degree that would provide comfort, but asserted that everything possible would be done to remedy the situation.

Q. L. D. RECEPTION

"It is not my desire to entertain my guests at a cold reception," Biederwolf said. "This condition must be ended. It may require a day or two to handle it, but we will solve the problem."

Rev. Warren L. Steeves asked for a volunteer crew of men to remain after the Biederwolf service and tack paper on the north wall of the tabernacle. Without hesitation a large number of the men offered to do their part, so that the crowds attending the Sunday services will not suffer from the cold.

"We will cover the north end tonight," said Dr. Steeves, "and I feel sure that the tabernacle can then be kept comfortable, but if the cold still prevails we will cover the west and the east and north sides. And then if that is not enough we will bring in more furnaces. We absolutely will make it as comfortable here as it is in your own home," he assured.

Saturday night's offering amounted to $61.09 and at the close of the service seven persons went to the front and gave the evangelist their hand for God.

Dr. Biederwolf preached on "The Fancy Show Box." He took for his text, "As a Man Thinketh in His Heart, So is He."

"It is just as bad to think a thing as to do it," the evangelist said. "If you hate someone and keep down your heart you wish that he was dead, you are a murderer."

ST. AD. TEMPLE WALLS

"Every sin that has ever been committed in reality, has first been committed in the heart. When the thief goes out to steal he decides it in his heart first and when the gambler sits in a game he knows before he starts that he is going to be a loser."

CRIME IS THOUGHTS

"We are the soul inside of ourselves," he said, "it is not what we do that decides the story of our lives with God. We might be thieves or murderers in our hearts, but we lack the sand to do it. Our deeds may be clean on the surface, but deep in our hearts we are as black and dark as hell. God knows our thoughts and will judge accordingly."

E. J. Rollings, assistant evangelist, directed the congregation and choir in a short song service. Rev. W. H. Howard, pastor of the United Brethren church, offered the opening prayer.

Rollings announced there will be no meeting at the tabernacle on Sunday morning, but that regular services will be held in various churches. Dr. Biederwolf will deliver his first and only sermon of the campaign to women at the tabernacle Sunday at 2 p. m. Miss Ruth Beery of this city, who has assisted in many evangelistic meetings, will sing a solo and E. J. Rollings and Homer Grimes will sing a duet. There will also be a short song service by the women's choir.

There will be a young people's meeting at the Market Street Presbyterian church at 6 p. m. Sunday afternoon. After the meeting the young people will march to the tabernacle where seats will be reserved for them. Dr. Biederwolf will preach at the tabernacle Sunday night on "The Wages of Sin."

There will be no meeting at the tabernacle on Monday, as that is rest day.

Tuesday the regular meetings will all be resumed.

"Give as the Lord has prospered you," Dr. Biederwolf said. "We are striving very hard to get these debts out of the way and just as soon as we accomplish it there will be no more time taken by passing the offering pans. Whatever is lacking will be collected one week from Sunday morning when the churches will hold a community meeting at the tabernacle."

"Friday night will be birthday night," he continued, "and the congregation will be expected to give a penny for every year they have lived. Old folks will be very, very welcome."

SEEK GOOD OPINION

In his sermon on "Fancy's Show Box" the evangelist said: "Our trouble is that we want other people to think a lot better of us than we are."

"When we go to the photographer to have our picture taken we are not satisfied with the picture if it looks natural. We say, 'Oh sir, I don't like this picture. It is wrong somehow. I can't say just where, but it don't suit me.' The photographer is onto his business and he rubs out the wrinkles and removes the moles. The next time we look at the proof we are pleased, order an extra half dozen and even suggest we go to the photographer."

POLICE SUMMONED
BY U. S. COURT

Watkins, Keller Ordered to Appear for Trial Monday

CHARGES ARE UNCERTAIN

Believed to be Outgrowth of Bird Shooting Affair

Summons ordering them to appear in federal court, Toledo, at 9:30 a. m. Monday, were received Saturday by Dick Watkins, motor policeman and William Keller, plainclothesman, of the Lima police department.

The summons informed the officers that they must be ready for trial. Information concerning the charges against them, however, were lacking.

It is believed that both will be required to answer to charges of violating national game laws by killing song birds.

Both Keller and Watkins were involved in an affair here during the first week of August, growing out of a regular police complaint, which, they say, must have led to the summons received Saturday.

RESULT OF COMPLAINT

During that week, residents of the 700 block, W. Market-st., complained to headquarters that blackbirds were creating a nuisance in the neighborhood. Watkins and Keller were detailed to eliminate the source of trouble. They used shotguns.

The day following, Charles Hanes, game warden, investigated the incident. He claimed the officers did not confine their attentions to blackbirds, but shot martins as well. Watkins and Keller were both called on the carpet as a result.

The affair got nowhere however, because the officers showed they had acted in accordance with orders.

The incident was considered closed until the sudden arrival of the summons Saturday. Letters to the two policemen informed them that they must appear for trial in cases of the United States government against William Keller and Dick Watkins.

Chief of Police T. A. Lanker attempted to get in touch with federal authorities at Toledo concerning the summons, but was unable to realize any results, he said.

EAMON DE VALERA MAY FACE FIRING SQUAD

DUBLIN—Eamon De Valera may face a firing squad if he is apprehended by free state troops with arms in his possession.

The order to capture De Valera went out Saturday as free state patrols paced the streets, alert for an uprising to avenge Erskine Childers executed Friday.

At the government decreed death for Childers who was De Valera's chief aid and one of the foremost figures in the Republican movement, there is no reason to believe any mercy would be shown the former Irish president if he would be convicted of treason or found with arms, a death penalty offense.

Change in System Demanded Following Cabinet's Consideration

PRUNING IS BEGUN

Congress to be Asked for $9,500,000 to Carry Out Enforcement Plans

(BY PAUL R. MALLON)

WASHINGTON.—(United Press)—Nine and a half million dollars will be asked by the federal prohibition department for next year's battle with bootleggers, under plans being discussed by dry chiefs Saturday night. Congress will be asked to appropriate this sum for the coming fiscal year, in order that a new enforcement system may engage the run-running forces, President Harding believes, have gained much headway as to create a "serious situation."

A shake-up of the system, involving several hundred field agents and some state directors and other officials is under way to meet the president's objection that the present regime has permitted increased prohibition violations.

Attorney General Daugherty Saturday night joined the movement for a stricter enforcement—the administration program decided upon at a session of the cabinet Friday. He announced that a system of conferences between federal and state attorneys had been arranged so that closer cooperation between the two groups might be obtained. The conferences also will handle violations which might come under the Dyer automobile theft law, the narcotic act and the postal frauds law.

In the prohibition department shake-up, more than 50 agents already have been dropped in New York, eight in New Jersey and others in Chicago. Other changes soon will be made in other cities.

Prohibition Commissioner Roy A. Haynes declares these changes are being made in order to reduce the quota of all official posts to normal. The present force is larger than ever before, there being more than 3,500 men actively engaged. This is an increase of 1,000 men over last year.

This force, it is said, cannot be maintained at the present appropriation of congress and appearances are that unless President Harding brings pressure to bear, the appropriation bills which are to be drawn for the next fiscal year will not carry sufficient funds to finance any big expansion of the prohibition department.

There is a strong opposition in congress to an extensive expansion of the force.

According to the present reorganization plan, a few of the state directors or higher officials will suffer. The personnel of local offices, however, will be materially changed.

Attorney General Daugherty also made public a report of the criminal division of the justice department, in which it was stated 60,000 new cases under the Volstead, Dyer, narcotic and postal fraud acts, were begun during the present fiscal year and that 53,135 were terminated.

The failure of local self-government in parts of the country results in instances of citizens in those communities that the federal government perform that function in which the local government has failed. Daugherty has stated.

FORCES MARSHALLED FOR HALL CASE 'SHOWDOWN'

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—Special Prosecutor Mott Saturday marshalled his forces for a "showdown" in the Hall-Mills case next week.

The grand jury will indict two persons, "the woman in gray" and a "bushy-haired man" or classify the dual murder as an "unsolvable mystery."

Mott took advantage of the grand jury recess Saturday to put finishing touches to the evidence, he expects to present beginning Monday. His trump card, it is understood, will be in the form of a new "star witness," as yet unnamed, who, it is reported, will corroborate the story of Mrs. Jane Gibson, pig farm woman.

WASHINGTON — Weather outlook for the week beginning Monday:

Ohio Valley—Generally fair and cool first part; latter half unsettled and somewhat warmer with probability of rains.

MRS. LILLIAN MOORE

By GENE COHN

OAKLAND, Cal.—(Special)—The dramatic personae of this comedy of home life are:

Dr. J. Franklin Moore, prominent dentist of Oakland.

Mrs. Lillian B. Moore, his wife.

"Dr. Harris," Dr. Moore's "nom de mash."

"Grace Vance," Mrs. Moore's "nom de mash."

Reel 1: Mrs. Moore suspects her husband, Dr. Moore, of being a gay Lothario. She prepared a trap. She sits back to wait when—

She sees in the "love column" of a newspaper an advertisement she has reason to believe was inserted by her husband. It asks for a companion on week-end trips. She rushes a mash note, carefully changing her handwriting, and suggests a meeting. She signs the name "Grace Vance."

Oh, That I Had Writer's Cramp!

Reel 2: Comes a reply in a familiar handwriting, but bearing the signature "Dr. Harris." How about a meeting? Note follows note and Mrs. Moore always deftly arranges some excuse why she cannot meet "Dr. Harris," still seeking to draw him on to a direct admission of his real identity.

"Grace Vance" finally agrees to meet "Dr. Harris" in hotel lobby but, when he can't find her she hurries him note that she was frightened away by seeing an old acquaintance, Dr. Moore, in the lobby. With this "piece de resistance" of irony "Grace Vance" then draws from "Dr. Harris" an admission that he is married. Oh how could you thus deceive a poor but honest working girl? she waits in a letter.

In Life, as in Tennis, "Love One"

Reel 3: Into her lawyer's office goes Mrs. Moore. "Here are the papers," Dr. Moore is summoned to court. The trap is sprung. Ye gods, he's been sending mash notes to his own wife!

One by one the damning documents are produced. "I knew it all the time," declares Dr. Moore. "She thought she was slipping something over on me and I just led her along."

Fade-out: Mrs. Moore leaves court with decree. Alimony notice later.

PLAN SEEN TO POLICE,
LIGHT CITY

Illumination Cost to be Assessed Against Beneficiaries

DECREE BY MAYOR

Merchant Police Force to Take Place of City Patrolmen

Lima will be neither unlighted nor unpoliced during the next 12 months, if plans on foot among business men can be brought to a successful culmination, C. A. Bingham, city manager, said Saturday.

A movement has already been started to keep a portion of the street lights and boulevard lights operating, Bingham said, rather than permit them to be entirely disposed with beginning December 1.

While this plan has not taken definite form, it is understood its call for the assessing of the cost against those who will receive the benefits. Just how the assessment will be carried out has not been decided.

Lights in Lima cost as follows: Boulevard lights, all night circuits, $389 a month; are lights, $2,000 a month and gas lights $750 a month, Bingham said.

As the boulevard lights cover the main business district and to a small degree the residence districts, it would be possible to have the merchants and the property owners pay for it, it is pointed out.

There are approximately 200 business houses in the section covered by the boulevard lights and should the cost be apportioned to each equally, it would be only $4 each per month.

PROBLEM PRESENTED

Operation of the lights in the outlying districts where the arc and gas lights are installed is proving more of a problem and to date no definite plan has been suggested, although city commissioners are working on the project.

One plan suggested calls for the Ohio Power Company to furnish the street lights free of charge to the city and prorate the cost of the current and upkeep on the monthly light bills of all consumers. The gas company would do the same with the gas lights.

While this method may not be adopted, commissioners believe that some plan will be devised whereby it will be possible for the street lights to be operated with very few dark nights.

Something along the same line might be provided for street cleaning, it is pointed out, although the burden in this case will rest upon the shoulders of the property owners whose property fronts on the streets.

A plan which has been advocated by Vaughn Miller, city engineer, calls for each property owner or renter to clean the street in front of his home once or twice a week. Leaves make excellent fertilizer for gardens or shrubbery. Miller points out, and 15 or 20 minutes twice a week would keep the average street in excellent condition.

Organization of a merchant police force under the supervision of the regular police, is progressing as a satisfactory rate and it is believed the patrolling will be started December 1 when the police department is cut to 25 men.

John "Jack" O'Malley, private detective, will be in direct charge of the new organization which will be supervised by Chief T. A. Lanker and will be in touch with police station at all times.

This organization will in no way interfere with any other watchman service which any merchants or factory owners may now have, but will be entirely separate and employ men satisfactory to the police department.

Both day and night service will be afforded by the new organization, O'Malley said. Regular patrols will be established at night and a certain amount of detective work handled in the daytime.

While the Better Business Bureau is not sponsoring the new organization, the stamp of its approval has been placed on it and is recommending it as a means of protection where the police department is cut to the minimum.

Immediate installation of a burglar alarm system in the banks and jewelry stores of the city as a means of warding off daylight holdups may also be seen, it was stated at city hall. This would cost the city nothing.

First official statement from city hall regarding the proposed cuts in lighting and policing were issued by Mayor Harold Cunningham late Saturday.

DIVORCEE MARRIES BUT IS AGAIN TIED TO WIFE NO. 1

J. P. Tiernan, of Notre Dame Fame, in Matrimonial Mixup

WINS DECREE, QUICKLY WEDS

Court Annuls Order, Restoring Him to First Spouse

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—(United Press)—The divorce secured by John P. Tiernan from Mrs. Augusta Tiernan, was ordered vacated by Judge Montgomery at a special session of court late Saturday. Rehearing of the case was ordered for December 1.

The order invalidating the divorce decree was granted on complaint of Mrs. Tiernan, a few hours after the former Notre Dame professor was married to Mrs. Blanche Brimmer, of Hansell, Ia.

Mrs. Tiernan was plainly angered over Tiernan's sudden marriage to Mrs. Brimmer Saturday and immediately threatened she would not only revoke the divorce decree but annul the remarriage of her former husband.

PROFESSOR'S MARRIAGE

CROWN POINT, Ind.—(United Press)—John P. Tiernan, former professor at Notre Dame University, involved in recent scandal suits, there, was married here Saturday to Blanche D. Brimmer, of Hansell, Ia. She was married previously. She gave her age as 32, and said she had been a widow two years.

Justice of the Peace Howard Kemp performed the ceremony. Tiernan obtained a divorce from his wife on Thursday, and went to Waukegan, Ill., on Friday and attempted to obtain a license there, but was refused because of the Illinois law which requires persons who have obtained a divorce to wait a year before remarrying.

Before the divorce suit was filed a case was brought in South Bend courts to determine the paternity of Tiernan's third child. Mrs. Tiernan confessed that Harry Poulis, a clothing dealer, was the father of the baby. In the divorce proceedings Tiernan was awarded custody of the first two children while the baby was given to the mother.

The marriage was performed at Indiana's noted Gretna Green, where thousands of couples go each year to be legally wedded.

MINISTER'S DAUGHTER

HANSELL, Iowa.—Blanche Brimmer, who married Professor John P. Tiernan of Notre Dame fame, is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Charles P. Hawn, a Methodist minister here.

HINES MAY GO ON TRIAL SOON

Slayer of Robert Halloran to Seek Change of Venue

Date of trial of Otis Hines, mulatto waiter, charged with the shooting of Robert Halloran, may be fixed during the coming week, if a motion filed by counsel asking for a change of venue is disposed of.

Hearing on the motion was held Thursday. Affidavits were presented tending to show prejudice against the negro in Allen Co., such that a fair and impartial jury cannot be obtained to hear the case. One of the affidavits was sworn to by Thomas A. Lanker, chief of police.

Prosecuting Attorney Eugene T. Lippincott asked permission of the court to examine the affidavits and make reply to them. He may present counter affidavits, he stated Saturday.

Lippincott indicated that he will be ready to argue the motion some time this week. He asserts that it is possible to obtain a fair jury in the county and that Hines can secure just as square deal here as in any adjacent county.

Labor trouble existing in the city at the time of the shooting is advanced as a reason for shifting the scene of the trial, rather than Hines' race and color.

Should a change of venue be granted, the case may be taken to any one of five counties bordering on Allen Co.

Because of the scattering colored population in Auglaize, Hardin, Van Wert and Putnam Co., Hancock Co., are of these may be favored for holding the trial.

Hines is in the county jail, recovering from an operation performed at City Hospital. His physical condition has shown vast improvement since he was arraigned.

He will be tried on a charge of murder in the second degree. The law fixes the maximum penalty at life imprisonment.

Hines freely admitted the shooting to Chief of Police Thomas A. Lanker, who questioned him at the police station following his arrest. He will attempt to secure an acquittal on a plea of self defense.

HOUSES DAMAGED BY BLAST

Stone Hurlled From Quarry Rattles on Delphos Roofs

MANY PEOPLE ARE MENACED

Home Owners Nearby Will Protest Heavy Charges

Scores of persons in the southwestern part of Delphos narrowly escaped serious injury Saturday when a heavy charge of dynamite in the France quarry sent tons of heavy stones hurtling skyward.

The usual blasting signal was given by the quarry whistle, but nearby residents were driven outside by the unusually heavy concussion and were in danger of being crushed by the heavy blocks, eye witnesses reported.

A huge stone crashed thru the roof of the Mrs. Josephine Metzger home, First and State-sts., damaging a chimney and cracking the ceiling in a second-story room.

The Frank Reinemeyer home, State-st., was damaged in several places by stones and was rocked on its foundation. Numerous windows in the vicinity were either shattered or loosened in their casements.

HOME OWNERS PROTEST

A delegation of home owners in the danger zone may carry a protest to city council at its meeting Tuesday night, it was indicated Saturday. More strict regulations governing blasts is expected to be asked.

Council adopted a number of regulations more than a month ago, making it compulsory for quarry employees to give warning at least five minutes before a blast and station men on the Landeck-rd nearby to curb all traffic until the blast is completed.

These rules were complied with Saturday, property owners declared, but the chief objection is against the heaviness of the charge. A section of stone several thousands cubic yards was torn out of the north side of the quarry.

A line of traffic an eighth of a mile in length was halted at the Jennings creek bridge, a stone's throw from the quarry.

Councilman Frank Pfeiffer stated the company has been asked to use as much precaution as possible and that blasts should be made at the noon hour.

The quarry owner, Willis France, could not be reached for a statement. It is declared unofficially that the company intends soon to move across the Clover Leaf Railroad tracks a short distance away on newly-purchased property. The present quarry is almost worked out.

PLAN EVOLVED TO LIGHT CITY

Monday. It bore out unofficial reports issued earlier in the week. The statement follows:

"The city commission has gone over the 1923 budget and has cut it to the bone. We cannot find where we will receive, from taxation and receipts, more than $175,000, while not less than $200,000 will be needed. All departments have been cut, some more than half. In order to get along on the amount of money we have, it has been necessary for us to make the following decision: Beginning December 1 all street lighting will be discontinued and all street cleaning will be stopped.

"At the same time the police department will be cut to 25 men and the fire department to 22 men. The firemen will be arranged among the various stations as follows: Central, 15 men as at present; South, two men nights only; W. High-st., two men nights only; Lincoln, two men nights only; N. Main-st., four men as at present and Kibby-rd, four men as usual.

"We expect every patriotic citizen to assist in reporting any and all law violations and to be on the alert at all times.

"We warn all owners of automobiles that any parking of cars on a public street, road or alley must have lights on after dark or be subject to prosecution.

"The above conditions to be in effect until such time as the commission can receive relief from the legislature at Columbus or some other manner be devised for raising revenue."

This letter was signed by Harold Cunningham, president of the city commission.

Manager Bingham declined to make public the figures of the 1923 budget, as it will be presented to the city commission Monday night. Many changes may be made in it both before and after it is presented to the commission, he said.

Bingham also promised to have ready early this week an exact account of the financial expenditures this year. This will show how the city has spent its money during the first year of the commission form of government.

FARM ACCOUNTS DIRECTOR TO CONDUCT SCHOOL FOR ALLEN-CO AGRICULTURISTS

R. F. Taber, director of the Farm Bureau section of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation, will arrive in Allen-co Monday to supervise two accounting schools for farmers.

One meeting will be held in the Bluffton high school Monday and another at the Gomer high school Tuesday. Both meetings will start at 10 a. m. and will be directed by Taber.

Methods of accounting, whereby every farmer will be able to discover whether he is operating at a loss and will be able to cut out many losses will be demonstrated, H. J. Ridge, farm agent, said.

Indications are that a large number of farmers will take advantage of the schools and install a system of accounts on their farms this coming year, Ridge said.

Motion for a new trial in a suit instituted in common pleas court by J. H. Williamson against Florence E. Morris, was overruled by Judge Fred C. Becker Saturday. Williamson obtained a judgment of $95.48 in January, when a jury which heard the case decided in his favor.

RECEIVE ORDERS

Orders calling for 5 trucks for immediate delivery were received Saturday by the Gramm-Bernstein Motor Truck company, officials of the concern announced. Sixty were ordered by a Toledo distributor and 20 by the London, England, branch of the concern. An increase in the number of men employed at the plant will be necessary, officials declared.

Robert Gordon Switz, Y. M. C. A., employed at the Lima Locomotive Works, suffered the loss of part of the third finger of his left hand when it came in contact with an emery wheel, Saturday. Switz received first aid and then returned and completed his work.

INSURANCE COMPANY

Motion for a new trial was filed in common pleas court Saturday by the Western & Southern Life Insurance Co., defendant in an action brought by George and Ella Wooden, 162 Grove-av to collect $250 of an insurance policy held by their daughter Florence.

A jury in common pleas court awarded the aged couple a verdict for the entire amount claimed on Wednesday. Counsel for the insurance company alleges that error was made in the charge of the court to the jury. The case was tried before Judge E. R. Eastman of Ottawa.

TWO EVENINGS OF MUSIC PLANNED
Lima Auto Club to Present Mme. Theodora Sturkow-Ryder

The exceptional evenings of music by Mme. Theodora Sturkow-Ryder, pianist, assisted by Lima talent are to be presented at Memorial Monday and Tuesday, under the auspices of the Lima Automobile club. The concert will commence at 8 p. m.

Monday evening Mme. Sturkow-Ryder will be heard in a piano recital, assisted by J. Allen Grubb, tenor, and Harley Holmes, violinist. Dale Marshall, tenor, will be the soloist for Tuesday's concert.

Each program is arranged so as to present two different sorts of music. Monday's selections will be drawn from operas and compositions calculated to delight advanced musicians. Tuesday the concert will present lighter and more popular selections, pleasing to those who enjoy music at its best, but are not musicians.

Mme. Sturkow-Ryder's appearances with such organizations as the New York and Minneapolis symphony orchestras and with the American Festival of Music for five successive annual conventions is ample testimony to her position as America's premier woman pianist.

On Monday Mme. Sturkow-Ryder will play selections from the compositions of Wagner, Foote, Rachmaninoff, Chopin, Chaminade, Liszt, Paderewski and Mendelssohn.

Tuesday here repertoire will be drawn from such masters as Paderewski, Chaminade, Arensky, Beethoven, Tschickowsky, and Rachmaninoff.

Both concerts will be opened and closed with a demonstration of Mme. Sturkow-Ryder playing in unison with an Apollo player on the stage.

INDUSTRIES AID RED CROSS
Lima Plants Report 100 Per Cent Answer to Roll Call

Lima industries are rallying to the support of the Red Cross, reports J. C. Jacob, general chairman, indicated Saturday.

Plants reporting practically 100 percent Saturday are the Ohio Power Co., Globe Box Co., Lima Sheet Metal Products Co., Apex Skirt Co., and the Solar Refining Co. These are in addition to the plants announced earlier in the week.

A $50 membership has been taken on by the Elks lodge and final reports on other organizations and the downtown stores will be made by the workers on or before Wednesday of this week, Jacob said.

Precincts of the city are responding to the call for memberships to greater extent than a year ago. Several districts have reported memberships where none were taken a year ago.

A number of former members who were not at home when the workers called have visited headquarters in the Elks Home and answered the roll call, Jacob said.

It is hoped those whom the solicitors have not been able to reach will send their subscriptions to the headquarters, as it may not be possible for the workers to make a second canvass, he added.

So far the campaign has been conducted without expense and all of the funds collected will be devoted to the work for which the money has been given, it was announced.

TAG DAY SUCCESS
More Than $700 Donated Saturday for St. Rita's Hospital

More than $700 was contributed Saturday, in a tag day event, for the support of St. Rita's hospital, Mrs. J. F. Myers, 606 W. Market-st, president of St. Rita's Guild, announced after an incomplete check-up had been secured.

Fifty young girls on downtown street corners sold tags throughout the day, meeting with splendid success, Mrs. Myers said. No goal was fixed by the committee and the results are very pleasing, the chairman said. They are very thankful to all who assisted.

Headquarters for the south side district were established at the Breslin furniture store, in charge of Mrs. Bert Blosser. Mrs. Myers was in charge at the central headquarters, at the Rowlands furniture store public square, assisted by Mrs. John Shashan and Mrs. A. O. Pinckh. Headquarters in charge of Miss Kate Killoran were maintained at the North Side Fire department. Miss Killoran was assisted by Mrs. James Murphy and Mrs. Daniel Murray.

BUILDER IN RACE WITH WINTER
New St. John's Church to be Under Roof in Three Weeks

IS IMPOSING STRUCTURE
Catholic Edifice One of the Finest in Lima

Altho winter weather conditions are setting in rapidly, it is the intention of Andrew DeCurtin, architect and builder of St. John's new Catholic church on S. Main-st, to get the structure under roof before what might be termed real winter is here—within three weeks.

Rev. Leonard Plumann, pastor of St. John's, Saturday echoed the sentiment expressed by DeCurtin. "We are well satisfied with the progress that has been made thus far and are convinced that with anything like propitious weather, our plans will be realized," Rev. Plumann said.

In addition to the fact that the new church will be, when finally completed, probably the most beautiful structure of its kind in the city, from the standpoint of magnificence of architecture and equipment, the outstanding feature of the achievement is that it is being erected by a parish of about 600 families and that its members are for the most part working people.

WORK IS DELAYED
While there has been no delay in the work of construction occasioned by lack of men, it is stated, the non-delivery of material during the past several months held up the structural work to the point that getting it under roof has not been accomplished, as was anticipated, by this time. The foundation was laid several years ago and the basement completed, wherein church services have been held, pending the erection of the church proper.

It is estimated that the completed shell of the structure will cost $125,000. Decorated and equipped with seats, altar, organ, altar railing, statuary, confessionals and other necessities, the cost will mount to $200,000, it is stated.

The new edifice, now attaining imposing proportions and the beauty of the architectural plans developing, will be as attractive as many of the large cathedrals found elsewhere and is a monument to the zeal of the pastor, Rev. Plumann and his people, as well as a splendid contribution to the many beautiful churches of Lima.

This church is 163 feet eight inches long, by 27 feet ten inches in width thru the nave and 100 feet ten inches thru the transept, which passes transversely between the nave and sanctuary. The sanctuary is semi-circular in form and has a depth of 40 feet. The narthex, or vestibule, is located between the main auditorium and the main entrance. Its seating capacity will be 950.

The vaulting of the center nave, 55 feet in height and the walls of the clerestory are supported by eight columns.

The architectural style is a modified Roman Renaissance. The predominant features of the facade are the two pyramidal towers, the 110 feet in height, and the stone pediment, supported by six monolithic columns 30 feet in height.

CARVING A FEATURE
The mosaic will be employed in the tympanum of the pediment. Prolific stone carving will be used to emphasize the three front entrances doorways.

Frased wood, Bedford stone and terra cotta are being used for the exterior walls and the roof will be constructed of Spanish tile.

Many events have been held for the purpose of aiding the building fund of St. John's church and while there has been good response, the amount of money to pay the cost of the completed structure is far from being realized.

The people of the parish have arranged a bazaar, to be held in the school hall near the church, Monday and Tuesday evenings of this week, as a result of which it is anticipated the building fund will be given good impetus.

BIG GAS MERGER IS PLANNED
Nine Ohio Companies Seek Authority to Consolidate

COLUMBUS. (United Press)—Authority to effect a $20,000,000 merger of nine Ohio gas companies as subsidiaries of the Union National Gas Corporation of Pittsburgh, was asked of the state public utilities commission here Saturday.

Application for the giant merger was filed by the Buckeye Gas Company, Circleville, which is seeking to purchase eight other companies.

The Buckeye Company, already a subsidiary of the Pittsburgh Corporation, is named purchaser merely for the purpose of maintaining the name.

The purpose of the merger is "to secure capitalization more nearly representing the true value of the companies and to effect economies in operation," the application says.

The organizations which the Buckeye proposes to take over are: Athens Gas Light and Electric Company; Bellevue Gas Company; Citizens Gas and Electric Company; Ellyria; Citizens Gas, Light and Coke Company; Findlay; Fremont Gas, Electric Light Power Co. (nary); Logan Natural Gas and Fuel Company; Columbus; Marion Gas Company and the Newark Natural Gas and Fuel Company. The companies develop no increase in rates is contemplated and that the merger will afford better facilities and service for consumers.

MARRIAGE LICENSE
James Ray Balmer, 23, lumberman, Bluffton, and Frances Harriet Burkholder, 20, housekeeper, Bluffton.

TURKEY OPPOSES SECRET MEET

Demands Open Sessions of Near East Conference

SEEKS FRIENDSHIP OF U. S.

Ottoman Delegation Head at Parley Gives Interview

(BY EDWARD J. BING)

NEW YORK. (United Press)—"While we are fully prepared to open the Straits to world shipping, we oppose any suggestion that the Straits should become merely another Gibraltar controlled exclusively by the British," Ismet Pasha, Turkish Delegate to the Lausanne conference and foreign minister of the Angora government, told me in an interview at Mudania, on the eve of my departure from the Near East to New York.

Meanwhile the decision of delegates to the Lausanne conference to open their meetings to world publicity amounts to the fulfillment of hopes of the Turkish statesmen, as expressed by Ismet Pasha on the same occasion, when the Turkish war hero and diplomat declared:

"Turkey demands that her word be heard by the western nations and especially by America.

"We attach the greatest importance to the attitude of American public opinion and we hope to convince Americans that Turkey was always able to face the truth. We oppose secret diplomacy and shall demand that the Near East peace conference deliberate in public."

MILITARY LEADER
Ismet Pasha, in whom the supreme confidence of his nation is vested, is a short, stockily built man with eloquent eyes and suave manners, which make him create more the impression of an artist than of a victorious general and firm diplomatic negotiator. He speaks French almost perfectly, having graduated at the famous French military academy of Saint Cyr. During the world war he was in charge of a Turkish division and later of an army corps at Gallipoli and in Palestine. His military experience stood him in good stead during his campaign against the Greeks.

The big Turkish offensive which led practically to the annihilation of the Greek army in Asia Minor and of which Ismet Pasha gave a minute account of the United Press, was conducted on lines closely resembling the strategy applied by Field Marshal Lord Allenby before and during his campaign in Palestine in 1918.

"We knew this was a matter of life or death for Turkey," Ismet Pasha said in his recital of what was one of the most complete victories of our country in its history, "that our country is saved, from destruction, we must turn our attention to the political and economic questions concerning Turkey. Ours was a war of self-defense against imperialist aggression, and our next test is the reconstruction of western Asia Minor which the retreating Greek army devastated completely, and the regeneration of our economic life.

"The freedom of the Straits must be established in a form which should protect Constantinople from a raid by a foreign fleet."

Ismet Pasha concluded: "As for the economic reconstruction of Turkey, we should like to cooperate with the United States on a sound business basis. The natural riches of our country need rational exploitation. We give preference to American business enterprise, because we know it is bringing about legitimate profit without any secret intention to conquer us politically, as is the case with most of the other powers."

Prohibitions, Local Option Be-

BY MILTON BRONNER

LONDON, (Special)—When at the recent session of the Women's Temperance Union in London, that organization revealed its aim of a liquorless world.

and laugh probably went up in the wet quarters in America.

"We'll never make Europe dry!"

they were probably exclaimed.

But the "pussyfoot" movement, as it is called here, is making progress in Europe. It's not accomplishing much in the way of making country bone-dry but it is bringing in prohibitions and local option—and it was the way nation-wide bone-dries started in America.

See for yourself what progress the movement has made on this continent:

Austria—Wet, but poverty of people is making for temperance. President Hainisch is a teetotaler.

Baltic Republics—Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia are wet because they are and potato producing countries were much vodka is distributed producing rich revenue. But temperance movement is on foot in Belgium.

Belgium—Distilled liquors cannot be sold in public houses.

Belgium—Local option law adopted under which many villages in rural sections have closed saloons.

Czechoslovakia—Still wet but prohibition sentiment is growing because President Masaryk is a teetotal while Premier Benesh writes articles in favor of temperance. But good Pilsener beer is still obtainable.

Finland—Europe's only bone-dry country since June 1, 1919. Having trouble with booze smugglers. Poorer classes said to have been benefited.

France—Absolute prohibition.

Great Britain—"Dry" only allowed to stay open about nine hours daily. Before the war they were open all day and night except from 1:30 a. m. to 5 a. m. Scotland has local option law.

Hungary—No temperance movement.

Ireland—Passed a bone-dry law but Spain protested that if Ireland's markets were closed to Spanish wines, Spain would close her markets to Ireland's fish. So Ireland had to admit wine or face national bankruptcy.

Italy—No prohibition movement.

Jugoslavia—Ministry of health is fighting alcoholism and tuberculosis, coupling them together.

Norway—Has prohibited distilled liquors and strong wines since

Christmas, 1918. This was introduced as a temporary law but Parliament and the people later ratified

it as a permanent law.

Poland—Has local option law under which some rural districts have voted themselves dry.

Rumania—Worst of all Balkan countries from the standpoint of drunkenness and absence of temperance activities.

Russia—Distilled liquors once prohibited. Reports as to their present status vague and contradictory.

Spain—No restrictions whatever.

Sweden—Prohibition sentiment is growing. Prohibitive on prohibition

Act, 27 resulted in small majority for wet. Majority all came from cities while country districts voted

dry. Local option law now asked.

Under this 13 of 24 provinces probably will vote dry.

Switzerland—Law adopted which suppresses the right of free distilling which peasants had enjoyed from earliest times. Strong temperance movement under way. Next year people will vote on local prohibition for distilled liquors.

A SIN TO LET HAIR FALL OUT35c "Dandérine" Saves Your Hair—Ends Dandruff!
Delightful Tonic

Hurry! It's your duty! Each day you see a little more hair falling out and you are making no effort to avoid baldness. What a pity. Falling hair means your hair is weak, sick, possibly dandruff is strangling it, or the hair root pores in the scalp are not firm and tight, thus wasting the hair-growing oil.

Dandérine almost instantly stops falling hair of men or women and cleans every particle of dandruff away, then the hair takes on new life, vigor and strength to grow strong, thick, and long.

Dandérine is delightful—not sticky or greasy. Go to any drugstore now and get a bottle. Use it. Have healthy, heavy, beautiful hair and lots of it.—Adv.

ELIDA ROAD IS OPENED
Major Section of County Highway Improvement
Uninterrupted as Gas Lines Are Moved

The first major section of the 1922 state road program was announced Saturday by the state highway department. The road is now passing over the newly constructed Lima-Elida road of the Harding Highway west of the city. The improvement, four and one-half miles in length, was completed with exception of a short section on the east end by McCauley & Co. of Kenton, and formally opened by the board of county commissioners. The unfinished section, about 100 feet, was not sealed, due to the contractors exhausting their supply of asphalt. The seal coat will be applied during the week. The road will have an asphalt-tar surface on a waterbound macadam base. Tar will be applied with a surface heater during cold weather. A large crew of paving brick-layers will commence work on Section 232 of the Dixie Highway north of the city Sunday morning, in an effort to put in 1,700 feet of brick paving before Monday night. When this is done, the road will be open within a short distance south of Beavertown. Earl L. Reeb, Deane, contractor on the section. Beyond Reeb's section, Westrick, Evans & Shreve, Napoleon, have work to carry the pavement north into Beavertown village. Completion of the road will afford farmers of two townships a hard road into Lima thru the winter. Beyond Beavertown little or no work has been laid. The base is in, however, and will carry traffic thru the winter. South of Lima, contractor Heil has less than a week's work to carry the paving up to the city limits at the Garfield Motor Truck plant. While more than two-thirds of the nine miles on the Marion road east of Lima is finished and the base and curb in on the remainder, Clements is hesitant about allowing all of the remainder of the road to be finished. GAS LINES RE-LAID In order to build the road right and avoid having it up in the future, eight miles of pipe line was removed and relaid by the Lima Natural Gas company, at a cost of $15,000. The feat accomplished by the company in digging up their pipe line and relaying it without interruption of service, has attracted considerable attention in engineering circles, Clements declares. Whenever the line crosses the paving, however, it is feared that the ground may settle in the future. On this account Clements advocates not completing such spaces until in the spring. North of Delphos George Walther, Lima contractor, is putting the finishing touches on two-thirds of a mile of tar topped macadam. The contract was the last let in the county this year. It will link up with a paved road built several years ago in Putnam-co, from Fort Jennings to the county line.

Pennsylvanian is Charged With Attempting Murder
READING, Pa. — (United Press) Charged with attempting to murder Mrs. Annie Chamurs, 23, by sending her poison candy thru the mails, Mrs. Elizabeth Beard, 52, was under arrest here Saturday. Mrs. Chamurs received a mysterious parcel containing candy early in the week and becoming suspicious, turned it over to the police department for analysis. City Chemist Merkel analyzed the candy and each piece was found to contain bichloride of mercury, enough to kill a dozen persons. The "death package" was addressed in handwriting and on the inside was a note reading: "From Lulu, please give your mother a taste. I made it myself." Tracing the handwriting police arrested Mrs. Beard and placed a charge of attempted murder against her. The two women are said to have quarreled recently.

YANK PENALTIES CRITICIZED

America Existing Under Old Style System Detective Says

GUNS BLAMED FOR CRIME

English Policemen Carry Only Clubs as Weapons

CLEVELAND. — (Special). — "America is still living on the remnants of the old British system of jurisprudence brought over before the American Revolution. That is one reason why many individual American states have more executions annually than all of England and Wales combined."

Sir Basil Thomson, K. C., former head of the criminal investigation bureau of Scotland Yard, Britain's world famous detective service, makes this declaration. Thomson is a lawyer of note, so he is qualified to discuss the legal phases. His ability as a detective was attested by his appointment as British director of intelligence during the war.

"The old British penal code was terribly severe," continued Sir Basil. "A man could be hanged for the theft of $10. Long prison terms could be imposed on persons who were in debt."

"As the injustice of such penalties became apparent, judges were wont to allow defendants to raise every possible legal quibble or technicality to save themselves. By the time the colonies broke over this court system, the procedure was filled with many of these legal steps for delaying sentence."

Then came the reform of the British penal system early in the nineteenth century. The penalties were made more in keeping with the crimes.

LESS LOOPHOLES

"With reduction of the penalties came also reduction of the number of loopholes which had been allowed to creep into the old system. The result is that person convicted of a crime cannot use appeals, demurrers and other procedure to delay execution of sentence until public interest in the case is gone and freedom can be won on some quibble."

"After conviction, the penalty is made to fit the case. Political pressure cannot be brought to bear for a reduction of sentence. Even the Home Secretary cannot act, as the dead weight of his bureau's tradition is against him."

"England has for years stressed the sacredness of the sentence, until even the high government officials would hesitate to seek any mitigation. The general feeling is that all the beneficial effects of the reformed criminal code would be lost if this were allowed."

"As a result of this system, it might be noted that in England and Wales, with 45,000,000 population, there are only seven executions a year."

"America mitigated the severe penalties of the old English code, but kept all of the old loopholes allowing delays. American adopted the indeterminate sentence, but England, after studying it, decided that it would be harmful to give to laymen the power of settling aside the judgment of the judge and jury who heard all or the details of the case."

GUN A CRIME FACTOR

"Do you think promiscuous owning of firearms is a factor in crime?" Sir Basil was asked.

"Decidedly so," was the reply. "The pistols act in England, which is drastically enforced, requires a license from police before a gun can be purchased. The license application must show some real reason for the issuance—not just the fact that the applicant is a reputable citizen. There are no displays of firearms in pawnshops windows. Gunsmiths show weapons—but they do not sell them without a license being produced. They would be heavily fined if they did."

"Remember, too, that the police do not carry pistols in England. The baton is their sole weapon. As resistance of arrest brings double or triple the punishment for the original crime, there is but little trouble in arresting prisoners. This would not be the case if firearms were freely owned."

MUCH OF SEA'S ROMANCE GIVEN KNOCKOUT BLOW

SAN FRANCISCO — San Francisco waterfront still maintains in many outward aspects its old time picturesque, but its old time risks and hazards to the seafaring man are gone thanks to Andrew Furuseth, president of the International Seamen's Union.

Furuseth's "Americanized merchant ship" bill of a few years ago put the "crimp" out of business. Then Mr. Volstead's prohibition enforcement act came along and dealt another blow by knocking out the waterfront saloon.

The waterfront saloon was the "crimp's" hangout. It was there that he mixed with the seafaring men just in from a voyage, helping them spend their money "getting up" a few himself and landing their intention to stay on land for a time.

NEW LEGISLATION ADOPTED
LORAIN — Lorain is to have a new system of street lighting. Fixtures will be ornamental. The cost will be about $15,000.

IS YET TO COME FOR VIC

Political Candidate—Gossip

(By J. W. FISHER)

Vic Donahay, Governor-elect of Ohio, is just now beginning to appreciate what it means to be sitting in a position of anticipation of the fruition of long entertained hopes, but the cup of joy he fondles is already being clouded with the clouds of disorder and disillusionment that are in no manner prominent of desired by the Governor-elect.

Office seekers continue to make the days of the New Philadelphia man a troubled one, and his dreams of a peaceful character by night. When a bunch of self-seekers camp on the porch of the successful aspirant for the office, his real troubles begin to develop. Whether he hides away in the solitude of a private suite in the Southern Hotel in Columbus, or the same thing.

Job hunters followed him to the streets and woods when he went rambling, they button-hole him in the street, in the lobby of the hotel, or wherever he may roam. The procession is continuous. It's the same old story, morning, noon and night. They seek places near him at breakfast, lunch and dinner. Everybody wants a job—any old thing, just so it's a salary grab.

However, it is believed that Vic knows how to meet the situation. He's starting off well. He has declined to do anything about place filling until he has conferred with the leaders of his party. The first session of that sort has been held. Others will follow. Vic has no desire to get "in touch" with the men who do things when ballots are to be garnered. He'll want to be elected again and he doubtless will be if he succeeds in keeping folks pacified. His determination to keep his campaign pledge is a sort of religion with Vic. He is of the "do or die" type—and he doesn't care to die.

The politics of his administration, to begin in January, are well defined, but he is doing nothing until they are put up to the men who were largely responsible for bringing about his election. The selection of a cabinet personnel is another thing about which he feels others ought to have something to say. It is only right and proper that he should consult State Chairman W. W. Durbin on this score, and that's just what he has done. Durbin is more successful as a campaign manager than he is in listening to the claims of job hunters. What Durbin wants most is the selection of the best men, which will insure a successful administration and something on which to base a claim for the return of Donahay two years hence.

Many of those who call on the New Philadelphian do so for the purpose of extending congratulations and best wishes, but many are of the job seeking type. It's some task to separate the "sheep" from the "goats." Until his induction, Vic will be in Columbus on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week. Says he won't stand for any "pills or flub-dubs" in his inauguration. No swallow-tailed coat and high hat will go, very likely. He has no use for a voice amplifier and doesn't propose to be cooped up in a cage, no matter what the state of the weather may be.

No appointments have been announced by the Governor-to-be and there will be none, he says, until after he has been afforded the opportunity to secure all possible information concerning state affairs, and that will require some time. Vic has yet to realize to its fullest extent that there is probably more in participation than there can be in resignation in being made Governor of Ohio.

It strikes this political truth teller that the best thing for the state leaders to do is to give Vic all possible leeway in making his own selections of aides. He'll have to answer for them in finality. Besides, his judgment is good, he is a keen analyst of human nature and is possessed of the courage of a prize bear when it comes to guarding the interests of the people. Anyone who does "hook up" with him in the management of state affairs had better decide beforehand to be on good behavior and give good service, or there'll be a reckoning instant. There is no monkey-business about this man Donahay, anyone who knows him will agree.

Darke-co, the habitat of political feudists and tobacco growing interests, is about to witness a catastrophe falling upon the devoted head of one of its foremost political positions. William E. Haller, clerk of the senate, is the storm center of all the how-do-it-in-Darke.

It started in this fashion: "Bill," as he is familiarly known, in addition to being a popular senate official, is probably as close to President Harding as any man in the state. In fact, he is so strong with the executive that he has been dictating Ohio patronage. Thus a rumour has been stirred up and a coterie has been formed to get the seat of the active Bill.

Plans have been framed to retire Haller from the senate clerkship. He is not a candidate for return to the place, it is stated, but being a born fighter, Bill will likely attach a lot of importance to holding onto the job since he is being attacked from all sides by the medicine makers seeking his scalp.

Prominent among these is James A. White, titular head of the Ohio Anti-Saloon league. James has never forgiven Haller for bringing about the rejection of White's candidature for state prohibition commissioner and the substitution of J. Edward Russell of Sidney, Haller's known friend and political aide who knew when there's something to be pulled off.

White also said likewise has it in for Bill good and plenty for the part. The Greenville man played in shutting him (White) out of the management of the campaign of Carmi A. Thompson, after he had lined up with Rad Hynicka of Cincinnati and Marice Maschke of Cleveland, accredited vet leaders, in bringing about Thompson's nomination over a field of eight others.

That a split occurred is all too apparent. In addition to the White sore too, Charles Landon Knight is also stumping around with lacerated feelings. The Akron man accuses Haller of deliberately wrecking the Davis administration in the interest of Thompson. There's a hard row for Bill to hoe.

Some of the accusations made against this man Haller may be true others may not. However, where there's smoke plenty, it is a clench that most any old political fire department can find a blaze of some sort.

Charley Knight, editorial babbler in Akron and Springfield, still smarting under the drubbing he was given in the Republican primary as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, now accuses Haller as being for the most part the cause of it all. Bill is pictured in Knight's papers as the personification of the evil one, politically speaking, minus of course the horns and horns. Knight fears that Haller will continue his old tricks if permitted to again hold place as clerk of the senate.

Charley sees Haller in the role of a political Jonah, who should be cast overboard, in the interest of party well being. He is one of the worst examples of machine politics. Knight asserts; is the captain of the bossdom of his party and the right hand man of Harry Daugherty. It might be said in passing if there is any one man whom Knight would like to decapitate politically that individual is the honorable Attorney General of the United States.

Consequently, while James A. White of the Anti-Saloon league and the Hon. Charley Knight are sworn enemies and seldom have anything in common, it is agreed they are a unit in seeking to separate Haller from his scalp lock. Knight was more than friendly to Vic Donahay, after that ill-fated primary day when Carmi walked all over the heart strings of the newspaper publisher. He fears that Donahay as Governor will not be able to parry the thrusts that will be directed at him by the Haller crew and calls upon men of his own party to aid in putting Bill where he can't bite.

The next Governor of Ohio deserves support, Charley asseverates, and he is beginning thus early to show up the methods of the Republican wrecking crew he asserts will endeavor to undermine Vic while assuming to give him aid. On with the dance!

It is but natural that political dopsters should thus early start the lively pastime of picking Presidential possibilities for 1924. It also appears to be quite the thing for the aforesaid dopsters to make an appraisal of the material in Ohio before even considering the product of any other state in the union.

On the Republican side this is the result of the fact that the man who hangs up his hat in the most prominent place in the White House at the present time is an Ohioan. If Warren G. wants to take another whirl at the game, they'll probably be required to permit him to do it, if the veto of the soldier bonus, his espousal of a ship subsidy and his signature affixed to an admittedly bad tariff law doesn't wreck him and show the party leaders the path to defeat with the Marion man.

In view of the fact that Ohio generally furnishes the Presidential timber, it is in order on the Democratic side too for the medicine makers to give the Buckeye state the once over. And in so doing, there appears to be but one conclusion. In effect, this conclusion is that the party of Jefferson and Jackson and Wilson should not overlook the fact that one James M. Cox is entitled to consideration if he should desire to offer himself again. As a matter of fact, should possible aspirations on his part be denied, it would appear unfair and un-Democratic.

As the leader of what turned out to be a forlorn hope in 1920, his plan of campaign was such as to command the admiration of even his political enemies. His devotion to a principle was sincere and earnest and at the same time change issues, it cannot be said that the former Governor of Ohio is a straddler.

Men may come and men may go, but the world admires a man who has the courage to cling to what he believes is right. Under these conditions, the political desires of James M. Cox ought to be consulted before the eyes of Democrats are directed elsewhere.

Truman H. Newberry, until recently a duly accredited United States Senator from Michigan, did the decent and right and proper thing when he tendered his resignation from that position of honor and responsibility, which he attained in a dishonorable manner.

There are times when men refuse to see the handwriting on the wall or admit the inevitable. Newberry has exhibited sufficient good judgment to merit the statement that he is able to see farther than the unforgotten. Remembering the unforgotten fight that had been made upon him as the holder of a senate seat and after canvassing the election in which his colleagues and defender, Senator Townsend, was cast into the oblivion of defeat, Truman did the one and only thing he could do under the circumstances—he simply quit.

There has been a lot of gush printed in Republican papers concerning the discredited Michigan man; that he is a martyr and all that sort of thing. However, the real fact about it all is that Newberry was on the receiving end of exactly what was coming to him. His experience is in the form of a salutary lesson to others who may be imbued with the idea that dollars count for more than principle and justice in politics.

While he fought determinedly to hold the place he gained illegally and in a thoroughly reprehensible manner, Newberry knew that when justice should finally be enthroned he would be discredited. He did not have the nerve to face the fight—he knew would be renewed immediately upon the reconvening of the senate. Altho a coward politically, he had the courage to stop further warfare. Newberry served the purposes of his party in 1918 when he was seated by his colleagues, Ellis were once young and that youth must be served. When it was made known that the Donahays planned to leave five or six of the younger children in the Tuscarawas-co city, the State Journal very properly expressed its disapproval and advanced the opportunity to give its estimate of those who declaimed against children being housed in the Governor's mansion.

Columbus people no doubt have counted a great deal on seeing and hearing the natural, active, fun-loving children of Governor and Mrs. Donahay romping about the grounds surrounding the mansion and seeing them bringing the most acceptable music—childhood laughter—inside the walls of the structure Ohioans built for their Governor. The Donahays should alter their plan of leaving the younger children with their grandparents in New Philadelphia. Take 'em to Columbus with you, Vic, and if you so desire, transport them in the automobile you used while Auditor of State, concerning which there was so much political music emanating from Republican state headquarters during the campaign.

If Vic and Mrs. Donahay fear that the tireless little feet and hands of their offspring will deface the state property, they should forget it. They would not be natural if they did not. Who cares for a little grass tramped down? By a majority of 11,000 the people of Franklin-co invited Vic to convey his family to Columbus. In Allen-co a majority of 2,000 and more were given Donahay. They too want him to assemble his entire family under the roof of the state mansion. Nearly a million people in Ohio voted for Donahay without fear of a few dollars worth of state property being destroyed by his children.

There'll be no guards needed at the executive home under the Donahay regime. He'll save the state more than enough to build a new mansion, should the present structure be razed by the children. Old coats and crabs will object to a daily family reunion for the Donahays.

All the fine spun assurances emanating from Columbus to the effect that the Republican controlled General Assembly was inclined to "play ball" with Governor Donahay appear to have been knocked into a cocked hat by the latest bit of political gossip from the Franklin-co city.

A new ripper law is now said to be practically assured. It is designed, or so it is said to be, that the General Assembly will enact a measure to take out of the hands of the Governor the machinery for the enforcement of the prohibition law and place it in the care and custody of the Attorney General.

During the recent gubernatorial campaign there was a lot of silly twaddle going the rounds of the Republican controlled press and by word of mouth among adherents of that political faith, about the danger of disintegration of the Governor's mansion on E. Broad-st in Columbus, should Vic Donahay be elected and transfer his family of ten virile American children from their home in New Philadelphia to Columbus, there to reside during his tenure of office.

The Ohio State Journal expresses the proper estimate of this sort of political gabble which found lodgment with a few tight wads who appear to have forgotten that they vote was needed to commit a crime against American independence and democracy and against the safety of the world.

The people of Michigan did what the Republican majority in the U. S. senate refused to do—they repudiated Newberryism. Senator Townsend made the mistake of endeavoring to carry Newberry. He was made the goat, but it was the only way for the people of the commonwealth to the north to express the real state of their feelings.

Sitting back now and taking a retrospective view of the results of the elections held on November 7 in the various states, an adherent of the principles of Democracy must be impressed with the fact that it was a sweeping victory for that party.

It has given new heart to the leaders and is a beacon light for those who were cast down in 1920. By no play of words or twisting of facts can this G. O. P. make it appear an endorsement of the Harding administration. The opposite is the truth. In consequence, there is renewed activity in the Democratic camps, making ready for the more important fray in 1924.

The Democratic victory during the present month is regarded as an infallible forerunner of a still greater victory just ahead. Chairman Cordell Hull gathers that impression unmistakably from the tone of letters of congratulation on his leadership he is receiving from all over the country. It was an overwhelming personal victory for the national chairman, in his election to congress from the Fourth district in Tennessee by a majority in excess of 8,000. In turn, the Tennessee man pays a high compliment to the men who aided him in directing the important campaign.

The national committee has well under way its plans for the 1924 campaign and is greatly encouraged by the prospects of success, as unmistakably made manifest in the recent ballot contests. It is anticipated that there will be a more generous support of the Democratic cause in the way of finances, with prospects of success looming so brightly.

Chairman Hull received letters and telegrams of congratulations from all parts of the country, including glowing praise from Woodrow Wilson. To these was added the commendation of an Ohio man, James M. Cox, Presidential nominee in 1920. In a great measure the success that has perched on the Democratic banner is due to the excellent headquarters work under Hull's direction and the splendid publicity and organization work directed from Washington, admittedly the best in the history of the party.

al-to-be. C. C. C. Crable, of London, Madison-co.

However, the sponsors of the plan will scarcely have the audacity to make it an emergency measure, remembering as they probably do just what happened to some of the fellows who put over the original Davis ripper. Judge Ben Hough can testify to that. After former Governor James M. Cox hung the political hide of Judge Hough on the fence in a speech at Columbus during the campaign, the electorate of the state approved it to the extent of defeating the Judge for re-election.

Ohioans are "death" on ripper laws and should the Legislature make the mistake of attempting to switch responsibility for the enforcement of the dry laws without affording them an opportunity to accept or reject it in a referendum, there'll be a few more cases of political suicide. Better move slowly, boys.

Facts are facts and figures generally don't lie, when properly exhibited. While the Democratic state executive committee was forced to conduct a campaign with a meagly $28,837.67, the Republican committee expended $93,311.20, according to exhibits filed with the Secretary of State.

And while the Ohio Association Against Prohibition was spending $16,102.04 against the beer amendment, the Ohio Dry Federation disbursed $23,416 fighting it. Its sworn statement indicates.

J. E. Galvin of Lima contributed $2,000 to the Republican campaign fund.

The Ohio Dry Federation reports receipts from Allen-co totaling $1,092.90.

Next to former Governor James M. Cox, who gave $2,000, the largest contributors to the state Democratic campaign fund were Senator Pomerene, and Vic Donahay, with $1,500 each.

Congressman John L. Cable spent $1,672.14 and received $775 from the Republican National committee. He also had the aid of funds employed by the Anti-Saloon league against his opponent.

Governor Harry L. Davis apparently has in mind a political coup of some sort, due to the fact that he has summoned the present General Assembly to convene on December 29. The life of the body expires at midnight of the 29th, so there must be something of a special nature the chief executive seeks to put over.

Under the constitution, the new General Assembly will meet on New Years day for organization purposes and to prepare for the inauguration of the new Governor on January 8.

There is little question but that Governor Davis will endeavor to make the sledding for his successor as difficult as possible. Hence, there'll be a lot of pairs of eyes watching the doings of the General Assembly on December 29, in the final hour of the existence of that body.

And a little later Governor Davis is leaving for a tour of Europe.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

WHILE the securities markets quite generally sank to lower levels during the week, and while bonds particularly appear on the bargain counter, trade the country over is better. Hog and grain prices closed higher at the week end, metals are advancing, copper firm to strong and steel in heavy demand and carrying many premiums. Cuts in motor prices continue.

The depressed stock market is almost true to seasonable expectancy. Heavy selling to take losses for income purposes, and a well organized bear clique are sufficient for the downward trend, to say naught of conditions in Europe. The European situation is not only forbidding, but extremely serious. France persistently appears among the nations being consigned to bankruptcy by the best posted financiers and economists. But France, seemingly, continues to reduce her floating supply of paper money and the past week saw it decline a fraction more than four per cent.

Locally, further expansion in the factories of the city and a brisk retail trade at the close of the week, put business on the right side of the ledger. The temporary laying off of B & O workers is taken as the usual budget horror, and these men may be expected to return next Friday, at the opening of another calendar month. New orders at both truck shops were received during the week; the cigar industry is at full blast, the Loco and steel works advertising for men, and the railroads having all their equipment in daily use.

Money is easy at the banks, with a tendency, however, to harden within the next fortnight. The season is over for heavy demands on the Building & Loans, and contractors generally are shutting down for the winter. Inside work in structural lines, will last well into February according to contractors, however.

Real estate is reported active by one firm, and dull by the others. It is not moving as it deserves to move, for this spring will see a scarcity of housing, and a big demand for business locations. In the retail trade, one big mercantile house continues to knock at our doors and has a location now in sight.

A CITY OF DARKNESS

LIMA, the city of darkness! Dismal streets at a time when all should be light and gay. That is the prospect for our little city beginning next Friday.

Official announcements has been made by the administration that all street lights will be turned off December 1. There will be a drastic reduction in our police and fire departments and there will be no street cleaning. There is no money to provide the things we are accustomed to, things we have taken for granted and never have considered what life would be like without them.

Contrary to the opinion of some that the cut in operating expense which has been ordered is a matter of spite, because of the defeat of the two mill levy at the recent election, it is a necessity. Cold figures will convince even the most skeptical that there is no other course. Our firemen and policemen have been paid in full for their services until the middle of this month thanks to the generous citizens who contributed during the last week to the fund. On the first of the month they will have another half month pay coming, totalling approximately $4,000. Where it is to come from no one knows.

The city commission has gone over the situation thoroughly and has taken into consideration every available source of revenue. There is no way except to cut down and the ax will fall the first of the month. The condition cannot be charged to high salaries paid to officials. True it is we are paying our manager $3,000 a year which appears a big amount compared with the salaries we have paid mayors in the past. But when one considers the salaries paid to various officials and directors under the old form of government and totals the salaries paid at present for administration, it is found that the salary payroll now is about $100 a year less than it was under the old system. Therefore, the $3,000 paid to the manager, no matter what one's opinion of the new system of government may be, cannot be taken into consideration in the present crisis.

We regret that it is necessary to shut off the street lights during the Christmas period. It will be disastrous for merchants and will not lend to the general spirit of the times. Instead of the gaiety and good feeling which should be prevalent, there will be surliness on the part of the people. And it will offer an opportunity for thieves to reap a rich harvest when the heaviest exchange of money during the year is being made. In addition, fire protection which should be at the maximum during the Christmas season will be made far less.

On the whole it is a sad outlook. We believe steps should be taken to provide street lights for the business section at least, during the holiday season. It would cost approximately $800 to keep the boulevard system burning during that time and certainly would be money well spent.

VALUE OF A SMILE

BEST service is not always given by those in places of high responsibility. Often, those in humble places attract the attention of the observing more prominently than persons serving in the bright glare of the public limelight.

This pertinent fact is brought home forcibly on many occasions to those engaged in newspaper making. It is noticeable in all walks of life. Ofttimes a courteous clerk in a bank attracts attention more readily than the equally courteous president, who is thrown into contact with the public in a less degree. The janitor in a public building sometimes attracts as much or more favorable comment than a high official. The clerk in a store, schooled to deal direct with the patrons, is in a better position to attract favorable comment from the patron of the store than is the owner, ofttimes.

This comment is impelled by an observance of the conduct of affairs at the Biederwolf tabernacle. Of course, the nationally known evangelist is the most prominent figure in the work of that organization. It is expected that he should be. Next comes the members of his party, the cooperating pastors, the members of the choir, the ushers, the furnace stokers and door keepers.

In the last position named above, the writer found one of the most interesting of the group of participants in the tabernacle campaign. No effort was made to ascertain his name. That it is his duty to see to it that the door is closed after it has been opened for the ingress or egress of individuals or groups, matters not and does not enter into the thought on which the comment is built.

It is the manner in which he faithfully performs his duty assigned to him, his constancy, his devotion to his humble position and—the smile with which he greets all comers. There is as much in this man's smile as there is in a Biederwolf sermon, and that is saying a lot. Perhaps you've noticed him.

TRAPPED

JOHN MARTIN, champion hunter employed by Uncle Sam, "works" two months in South Dakota. He kills 35 coyotes and two bobcats, all old animals. Two-thirds of them bore evidence of having been in traps from which they had escaped, or of having been shot and wounded in the past.

Old and wary animals are hard to trap or shoot, says John.

Experience is valuable, to humans as much as coyotes and bobcats. But most of us rates a mighty howl while we're acquiring it. Yet getting caught in a small trap usually saves us from a larger trap later—provided we remember and learn.

BIEDERWOLF'S SECOND WEEK

LIMA people have had ample opportunity to become thoroughly acquainted with Dr. William E. Biederwolf, the evangelist and the members of his tabernacle campaign party.

The second week of their labors in this city has been completed. They start this afternoon on the third period of the campaign. United effort, cooperating with the pastors of 26 Lima churches, has brought fruitful results. Interest has grown and broadened, rather than having diminished, as many probably believed it would.

Attending the tabernacle services may be in the form of a novelty for some persons, but for the most part the thousands who throng into the great pine temple daily it is a serious business. The soul of Lima is being awakened, it must be admitted by the most callous and indifferent toward the work of the Biederwolf party. Hundreds have "bit the sawdust trail" under the spell of the matchless logic of Dr. Biederwolf as he pleads with his auditors to stand out boldly for cleaner lives, better christian example and more active service for the Master.

Not all of the people of Lima are interested in what the evangelist is endeavoring to do. It is a safe surmise that those who criticize the most know the least about the tabernacle campaign, the plan of operation or the purpose of it all. However, there are many thousands of people whose whole heart and soul are in the work, they are honest and earnest and sincere. They are attempting not only to live as their God would have them to do, but realize their obligation to endeavor to bring others to better living, cleaner lives and to the setting of a better example in their communities.

The Biederwolf campaign will continue four more weeks. The results of the first fortnight are such as to practically assure that the goal set up will be attained.

ANTICIPATING THE FUTURE

DRAW days of winter have come. The drear and gloomy prospect of a several months' period of outdoor inaction is upon this territory. For the most part, building operations have ceased, until the coming of spring. Projects of all kinds that call for service in the open are at a standstill. The shut-in days have begun.

This is productive of thought along a line that ought to have a lot of attention in Lima during the next several months. Time speeds along so rapidly that the months will pass as weeks or days for the most of us and the blue birds will soon chirp again in invitation for man to come out of winter lethargy.

While Old Boreas reigns it is a good time for those who are interested in the development of Lima to plan for the future. When spring comes again there will be demands for park improvements, aid for playground activities and many other things, including a revival of the need of swimming pools.

These things might well be planned while nature is embraced in ice and snow. Programs should be laid out in detail for the actual work and for the financing of the projects. Long ago city officials learned the lesson that paving project legislation should not be delayed until spring, if the work was expected to be completed within the year.

The great trouble with progress is that plans are not laid in the proper season. Delaying action on preliminary phases until the actual time a thing is needed is poor policy. The usual winter activities could profitably be sidetracked in behalf of preparing plans for spring and summer activities.

Another feature in support of this line of reasoning is that when balmy weather conditions return, for the most part the people are intent upon the enjoyment of the open season and have no time for planning and financing and building.

Suppose you were the sultan of Turkey? He is away from home and 300 wives running up bills on him.

They threaten to broadcast grand opera in German, but this threat won't make us cancel the debt.

NERVOUS FOLK SHOULD SKIP THIS

Just what is the definition of a nervous person a nervous correspondent inquires.

The nerves are a mighty handy institution. I don't know what some of our most popular physicians would do for a living if people should become somewhat less credulous about "nerves" or "nervousness" as accounting for impairment of health.

One who is impulsive, quick and jerky of movement, restless, twitchy, touchy, short of patience and emotionally sensitive is said to have a "nervous temperament." Nothing wrong with the health, however, so we'll dismiss the nervous temperament with a mere suggestion that it is the normal expression of ductless gland activity, rather a racial trait than a family or hereditary endowment.

The extreme degree of "nervousness" is hysteria, a state in which an idea has control of the mind and hence determines the behavior. The extraordinary behavior of an hysterical subject is no more intentional than is the convulsion of the epileptic, and that fact sharply distinguishes hysteria from "hysterics" in the popular sense, or mere tantrums, a case of raising ructions or the roof out of pure cussedness, unbridled emotion and a childish desire to let off steam. Most genuinely hysterical patients are quiet and docile and the experienced physician alone recognizes the basis of their remarkable symptoms—the laity seldom does, and since hysteria proper mimics about every other condition under the sun except perhaps "hysterics," and comes and goes as mysteriously as warts or hives, there is obviously a grand opportunity for miracles to happen in such cases, particularly if the healer employs a remedial measure sufficiently odd or novel in itself to impress the mind. When we consider that hysterical paralysis, aphonia (loss of speech) or amblyopia (blindness) seems very real to the ordinary observer, and also that it is human nature to proclaim spectacular recoveries widely and take recoveries under conventional treatment as a matter of course, we begin to understand modern miracles.

"Nervousness" is a cloak which the patient willingly wears and the doctor sometimes offers to cover naked truth. People don't always care to parade the naked truth before their neighbors. Neighbors? Nay, lots of people prefer not to look upon the naked truth themselves. And so some doctor of old sprang this happy notion of "nerves," "weak nerves," "nerve exhaustion" or just "nervousness" a great labor savor for the easy going doctors, a worry savor for folks. Doctors are learning to labor, having long since learned to wait. Even nervous folks should worry today; tomorrow may be too late.

Listened lingeringly to a Biederwolf prayer meeting next door. Enjoying its entrancing allure. While the winning wail of the par excellence pianist's solo, took me back to the days. When "At the Cross" was the most popular ballad I knew. So, feeling as good in soul and that as the emerging from a legit House of Worship, I out and to my stint.

At the postie, and there saluted by an engraved invitation from the Ohio Society of New York. Requesting my modest presence in Tux trousers to its first dinner-dance of the season. At the wondrous Waldorf, with reception in the Astor gallery. Albeit, will need my distant and more handsome kinsman, J. E. He too, being a does-payer

In haste, to the printery there fynding pleasureable calls from Messieurs Haley and Weil. At different hours, howbeit. They being merchants in variegated lines. M'seur Haley long known to me, and Jack Weil, having co-lived with my family at The Norval. With only a thin partition between our fearless faults.

Abroad and made entre into the tantalizing Tullis Academy. To learn that Prof. Blunk, the bashful psychologist, had drawn one of the chickens at the New Orpheum. Yet too bashful to go upon the stage and claim her. And a gorgeous galaxy of chicks this popular playhouse always displays.

Poor Blunk.
To a monery, speaking with and to Joe Cowan, the brave financier, in a noble new topcoat. Out, to meet Judge Phil Crowe, hastening for an Erie train which would be two hours late. Bound for a week-end in his dear old Kenton.
Bade bon voyage to George Dennis, the super-chief, off for a wild game hunt in northern Michigan. Up Sinclair-st, for a conference with Maitre d'hotel Harry Friedman, but he out. So, into the Mawruss and Charlie shoppe, and bot a bauble for my neck-band, of which I was in sad need. Met Tom McLaughlin, the ex-tennis champion and architect.

Bowed in fyne fryndliness to Col. John A. Harley of the Lima Truck & Storage barns. Making me a load of fertilizer for my ragged hedge. Thence, spoke to Charlie Killen, the stone king. And so home to lunch, all alone with my niece, of whom I have but two. And the other a harem, scarem, flapper. Spending her mother's hard-earned monies at a fashionable school in the east. Called Orontz. In the late afternoon, to the Tabernacle. And enjoyed again the technique of the pianist. While the sermon did me good. Which is much for a sermon to do. Thence to see "The Gang" with my niece at the Quina. Haven't seen Madge Mitchell Barnes on the street or in a coach, and anxious so to do. Dined on a preamble for the real meal, Sunday noon. And late, to bed.

UTILITY OF BOARD

Chosen Architect to Plan New Schools

INSTRUCTIONS ARE GIVEN

Organization Made Principle of Building Program

Architectural beauty, latest innovations in school construction and a combination of every possible feature are the integral features of the building program enabled by the raising of $540,000 for school bonds here.

The new buildings will be for school purposes, they are to be constructed so as to add to the civic beauty of Lima, according to statements made by members of the board of education.

Beauty of design in so far as it will not add excessively to the cost of the new buildings, nor lessen their utility in caring for students, was aimed at, asserted T. D. McLaughlin, who was chosen by the board of education Friday night to draw up specifications for the entire program.

EXAMINE OTHERS

The fact that McLaughlin has designed a large number of school buildings now being erected or completed for was an important factor in the selection of the board. It was pointed out that no new school building in school construction may be planned by members of the board without the approval of the Superintendent of Schools, J. G. Collins and Architect McLaughlin will inspect new schools in practically every large city in Ohio.

The third demand of the board of education that every possible part of the new buildings be standardized, will appreciably lessen the cost of construction. This policy will be carried out especially in regard to mill work, and was one of the prime reasons given by members of the board for awarding the entire architectural contract to one man.

McLaughlin will start at once preparing sketches for the new buildings, one to be located on the Fairview site, one on W. Spring-st., and the third in the South end. He will also design the additions for the Franklin-bldg. and South school.

The program as outlined by one of the board calls for the completion of the plans in time to allow the bids to be let the last week in February or the first week in March.

DELPHOS LEGION POST ARRANGES CARNIVAL TO RECOUP PREVIOUS LOSS

Annual carnival of Commemorative Post, Delphos American Legion, will be held December 11-16, in the Legion headquarters, K. of P. building, W. Second-st.

Plans will be discussed at a meeting Thursday night. The affair will be mapped out on a scale designed to overcome financial reverses the Legion met with in other endeavors. Other organizations of the city and all individuals will be asked to lend assistance.

Committee in charge of the carnival is composed of Kenneth Krutch, Ira Huber, Isadore Bonifas, Thomas Finley and W. D. Swihart. Others may be selected to assist the committee.

All other features of the Legion program will await the successful completion of the carnival. A benefit motion picture show and formation of women's auxiliary will await the indoor circus.

Installation of newly-elected post officers will be conducted the first meeting in January. Commander G. L. McKenzie will be succeeded by Ira Huber.

ELKS PLAN MEMORIAL SERVICE SUNDAY, DEC. 3

The annual Elks memorial service will be held at the Elks Home Sunday afternoon December 3, according to an announcement made Saturday by Glen Rohn, secretary of the lodge.

The program is now under preparation, he stated. One of the finest speakers in the state is being sought to supplement an excellent musical program.

The service will start at 2:30 p. m. and is open to the public.

TRANSFER OF MONEY IS PLANNED BY COUNCIL AT DELPHOS FOR SAFETY MEN

A resolution authorizing transfer of money from various funds to the safety fund as a means of insuring safety department salaries for the remainder of the current year, may be submitted to Delphos council at its meeting Tuesday night.

City Auditor William Shaffer will work out some method whereby the transfer can be made without undermining the various sources from which the funds may be transferred. If the auditor does not find some way to make the draft Tuesday night, the matter will be held over until the first meeting in December.

Safety salaries have been met so far this year, according to the auditor, but the safety fund is now in such a precarious condition that it will not come near filling the monthly requirements of more than $700, including salaries and other expenses.

The transfer will tide over the city until the end of the year, but a situation even worse is faced in 1933, when a one-mill cut in funds for city purposes make it appear that there will not be enough to meet salaries.

Pajamas More Favored Than Long "Nightie"

WHICH are the best, pajamas or night shirts? An inquisitive reporter for The Lima News put this question to five Lima people and secured that number of answers. The majority favor pajamas, for the reasons they give. However, the old fashioned "nightie" isn't altogether in disfavor.

C. H. BELL, Manager of the National Cash Register Co.: "Pajamas are very unreliable for a fat man." For reference he quotes Joe Hartline.

W. T. MONBECK, Office Secretary of the Y. M. C. A.: "Pajamas are much more comfortable than a flying night shirt, when it comes to chasing a prowling cat out of the back yard in the middle of the night."

HERBERT RUDY, Hapmobile Service Station: "Pajamas are much more popular than a nightshirt because of their greater warmth."

L. S. ZWART, of the Deisel-Wemmer Co.: "Pajamas are very nice, but there is nothing like a long shirt to keep your feet warm."

M. C. WEISLER, paying teller at the Lima Trust Co.: "Pajamas look much better than a night shirt and for that reason they are probably better."

Rev. George B. Townsend, pastor of the First Church of Christ, Angola, Ind., has accepted a call from the Central Church of Christ here. It was announced Saturday.

He will enter the pulpit in Lima for the first time on December 17, having already tendered his resignation to the congregation of the Angola church, and having made plans to come to this city.

Rev. Townsend comes here to fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of Rev. J. Allen Canby who gave up the Lima pastorate to move to Ann Arbor, Mich., where he will engage in special research work at the University of Michigan.

Rev. Townsend began his ministerial career at Paulding, O., where he served for five years. From there he went to Troy, N. Y., where he remained for seven years until called to Hagerstown, Md. His next charge was at Angola, at which place he remained for four years.

PUBLIC MIND IS IN TURMOIL

Speeding Events Sweep Folks Off Their Feet

WHAT DONAHAY IS FACING

Recent Vote Continues Subject for Analysis

THE LIMA NEWS BUREAU, COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 23. COLUMBUS — (Special) — It is worth recording in this season when father is troubled by the high price of turkey and mother is wondering whether she cannot make last winter's coat do another season (on account of the tariff, you know) and President Harding is trying to talk the American people into voting money out of their treasury and another income tax installment is coming due and December state and local taxes are in sight, that there are at least two favorable symptoms in prospect for Ohio affairs. The first of these is that goodness of heart or pleasant fall weather or something, at least, moves every man and woman, too, of the incoming Ohio Governor to Assembly to do something about the high price of turkey. The second is that a spirit of co-operation will be extended to Governor-elect A. Victor Donahay. The second is that A. Victor is not being swept off his feet by the rush of office-seekers in the middle of the year, and that he will not improve his or her economic prospects, but they promise at least something of the atmosphere of tranquility and peace so badly needed here and abroad. In state affairs, they ought to promise a short legislative session and reduced appropriations and a cut in the tax rates. That's about all that the state government can offer people. But it would be so different from what has been endured—no, not endured—that it would be something.

Back of the promises for co-operation much may be read. The remarkable independence of the voters is to be seen in the statements as a solid, even if threatening background. The overtures in the national elections carry the threat of a rod in pickle for statehood and the resignation of Senator Truman H. Newberry of Michigan is not without its sobering effect. Nor will the state in many a day forget the Court Judge Benson W. Hough with its own implication of most solemn admonition that government neither here nor at Washington is a plaything of selfish personal or political interest, but that the people of Ohio know what is theirs and intend to maintain it. Nor can the vote be infected as anything more than a choice afforded the new judges to give their separate ideas of what constitutes proper respect for the people. Disputing the language of Supreme Court Judge Thomas A. Jones, the people have not forgotten. Their eyes are upon the new holders of official powers.

Determination of Governor-elect Donahay to absorb all the information possible, to act as a sort of sponge for a time and to go home to the bosom of his family quietly to digest the facts he has gleaned will impress the state as a wise course. Mr. Donahay is perfectly well aware of the style of propaganda that was carried on against him, assertions that he had not the capacity to fill the place and that he lacked the force of character necessary. He has weighed these statements and while he feels that they were most unjust he has not allowed himself to feel bitter or vindictively angry about them. On the contrary, he has been happy in a measure that they have been made, because it furnishes him with a most excellent argument to meet the demands of those who are in factional or partisan considerations first. "We must make good" is a sentiment left with many callers designed to put them upon their own honor and to cause more keenness of judgment and more careful weighing and balancing. It is something to know that critical eyes are upon him and the steps are to be taken with care but without cowardice.

There is a different spirit from mere division of spoils and mere rewards for those who were active in the campaign. The workers in the trenches are not to be forgotten, it is true, but fitness is also an element and each must be given its due weight. In legislative halls the halls and voters have impressed a lesson which was stated but a few days ago by President Harding, when he told the congress he thought it "latter statesmanship to support and command a policy designed to effect the larger good to the nation than merely to record the too hasty impressions of a constituency." The words, also used in connection with the ship subsidy plan, already condemned in the minds and hearts of his countrymen, are worth study by themselves. As leader of his party in Ohio, the President might well send them to Ohio to be entered in the legislative copy books. Perhaps they might have an influence upon the course of affairs as the same sentiments might have been influential in shaping policies when prosperity was pretended in the days immediately following the World War. Has the Republican party—say rather its leadership learned the lesson that blind hatred and intolerant partisan obstruction do not pay? The answer will color events in Columbus no less than at Washington.

As has been observed by this chronicler, all that the state can do is to give the people capable administration and reduce the taxes which are so grievous a burden. The situation and particularly that of the farmer is black, as the President himself admits the farmers to be "chief sufferers from the cruel reductions which follow war's inflation." The trouble, however, may be clear but the remedy is perceived not at all. Hard-headed folks have discarded the idea that more borrowing can produce results. The ernment help to more loans will do imperative need is for markets. Gov. little for the land-owners whose domains are likely to be sold at the courthouses. The volume of debt is already staggering and when December tax-paying time comes around, as it inevitably will, more farmers will go to the bank to borrow money. As inevitably as it will be borrowed it must be repaid and credits cannot repay the loans. It's worth while to stick a pin there, for doubtless wild-eyed dreamers will have new projects to deceive, not to aid the sufferers.

Preliminary to any further activity in the wholen pursuit of ideas political there should be classes for the study of the vote of 1922. Some painstaking correspondent for one of the larger city newspapers has gone over the figures with a tooth comb. His deduction is that James A. White of the Ohio Anti-Slavery League is the man who can play the bassoon, the either or the five-stringed harp in Ohio politics and can do logarithms with election returns. With James it is not sentiment of the state as a whole that counts, which may account for the fact that he can play ducks and drakes with any politician that is made in a word, he has mastered that elementary lesson in the primer that what counts is to "get out the vote." The import of all the analysis is this, that the vote was not out, the county vote was one vote out of every four in the cities remained at home because the weather was bad, or because he or she had forgotten to register or because it was a good day to do the family washing or play golf or run motor cars or because of general indifference, but one voter in every dozen was away from the polls in the country. Experts in political manipulation ought to go to school to White as he frankly suggests in his post-election review. In some districts he only missed one out of every hundred and he was judicious enough to see that these districts of maximum efficiency were those which are usually reliably Republican. If it had not been that thousands of these voters could not be controlled, there would be no Governor-elect Donahay now. This old scribbler does not know White's intention, but whatever the multiplication charges, they are worth it!

Political enemies of United States Senator Frank B. Willis chuckled in audible tones this week when they read the news Monday that United States Senator Truman Handy Newberry had resigned his seat. When it is observed that they were enemies who grinned devilishly it is not to be inferred that they were wicked Democrats. They were not—positively. They were Republicans who yearn for the opportunity to put Frank Bartlett's well-founded form on the skids and then to give him a push. Senator Willis knows it, too. The knowledge may have been back of the reports that the good natured change in his mind on Newberry and planned to make his vote harmonize with the highly moral resolution that he drew up and had adopted as the sugar coating for the Newberry pill. Senator Willis now knows that the bitter tasted right thru and that he lacked a chocolate covering for the sugar coating. As a matter of fact of plain, hard-headed everyday politics, the Newberry case will be following Willis from this time forward and he can no more escape than he can run from his shadow. Some anti-Newberry Republican will make the issue against him, or it may be better to say that some Republican will be anti-Newberry in the primary campaign that is just four years head of him. It is dreadfully to know the anguish the good man will go thru for four long years while waiting. But it's hard to see how he can escape it. Truman played him a bad trick by resigning at this time before he got a chance to fix up the record. Maybe he had a suspicion that the rabbit vote was to leave him in the next senate. If he did, Truman was crafty in running first.

Speaking of United States Senators, here is a little bon mot from the pen of Guy E. Newark, whom every newspaper publisher and editor in Ohio knows, because Guy has been selling the wherewithal of newspapers for nearly a generation. Newark is fond of assembling the oddities and in a recent collection had this dainty comparison: "Yellow Springs boasts it is the smallest village owning a United States Senator, but graciously overlooks mentioning the size of the Senator."

Well, there's Ada, which has Senator Willis and it has a bigger Senator—a clear majority of at least 150 pounds avoirdupois, assuming of course that the whimsical printer's friend is referring only to embonpoint and such. If he means anything else, shame on him!

Much depends upon the point of view. This is either a sound philosophical principle or a platitude—again depending upon the point of view. Some persons will call the flopping around as between the party candidates an example of independence in voting, and some will call it mobocracy. Probably both are right, to a limited extent. Example of it in the urban counties are numerous. For instance, Governor-elect A. Vic Donahay carried Hamilton-co but the Republican county ticket went thru by 30,000 majority. He carried Franklin-co by 10,000 and yet a corps of Republican officials was elected. He narrowly lost Cuyahoga-co but the county majorities for the Republicans were staggering, a result due in part to the brand of politics played by certain of the leaders who did their utmost to keep Donahay from being nominated. Insofar as the results expressed individual judgments of voters, the outcome may be measured as a healthy sign of voting independence, a spirit even now voiced in the renewed demand for the pure form of Australian ballot, or the Massachusetts plan. Under this the candidates for offices would be grouped as on the primary election ballots and party emblems would be wiped out. The candidates for Governor would be listed merely as members of their respective parties and parties unrelated to make the voters look more sharply for the names. Still, they can switch lines now without help under the existing rules and they can find the political weakness in the ticket line-up quickly. But there is another side to the story. With the laxity of party restraints some evil passions enter. Religion—prejudice—nationalism—may be traced in the returns very clearly—too clearly.

It was once asserted that the maximum variation in party votes was somewhere near 100,000 for the state as a whole. This was founded upon such elections as 1908 and 1910. In 1908 William Howard Taft carried Ohio by 70,000 and Judson Harmon was elected Governor by 20,000. The following two years saw Harmon run by 25,000 ahead of the tail-end of the ticket, the all the Democrats went into power. But consider that in this year there was a variation in one county of 101,000. Prosecuting Attorney Edward C. Stanton, a Republican, was re-elected in Cuyahoga-co by 65,000 majority, while the same voters chose John A. Ziegler county auditor by 36,000 majority. Such a record of scratched tickets has never before been known. On a smaller scale the same story may be told for a dozen different communities. Sometimes it was emotionalism that brought about the result. At other times, indefensible prejudices contributed to it. Out of it may come good if it teaches those who make nominations to select the best and not hope to cover bad material at the bottom with a strong top. Out of it may come harm if it encourages playing to trouble-making minorities.

While the merit of the civil service system is under attack from many influential quarters it is well that the people of Ohio pay serious heed to a bit of testimony on the other side. A New York grand jury, in reviewing the shocking scandals in the federal prohibition department in that state observes that the "office seems to have been made the dumping ground for influential politicians who secure appointments for their henchmen without proper regard for the qualifications of those chosen." Perhaps, a defense may be made for certain Ohio appointments in that the sponsors who brought them about were not "influential politicians," but just plain, garden variety politicians. In Ohio, the department, led by the example of Director Roy A. Hayes, did valiant service for the party and some of the shining lights of the "enforcement" division, including Sherman A. Cunco and one H. M. Paul, honored the Republican committee payroll with their names. From this one might infer that the evil of demon rum had been considered entirely, or again it might be inferred that a little matter like catching up with the bootleggers is a mere detail that can be attended to at any old time. What's the answer?

In one of the plays of the late William Shakespeare he has one of his actors say that "conscience doth make cowards of us all." But had he lived in more modern times he might say that stenographers do make ungrammatical writers of us all. Which serves to recall an incident in Ohio history when a dignified congressman, informed by a city that a certain question had not been "judiciously" determined, when he went "judiciously" and led the still more dignified court to believe that he was poking sly fun at the sacred ermine. But here now comes Hon. Harry A. Daugherty, the duly acting and legally qualified Attorney General of the United States, to request "respectively" that the case be forwarded to him the charges upon which his impeachment is sought. Alas, alas, what these stenographers can do!

BROTHERS DROWN WHILE STANDING HAND IN HAND

HELEBORO, N. C.—Standing erect, hand in hand, the bodies of two little brothers, Ernest and Marcus Braggard, were found in the canal here, when the water was drained off after a fruitless search of surrounding country. The boys drowned while trying to cross on thin ice.

LIVESTOCK SHIPPING MARION, OHIO—Shipments of livestock valued at $155,076.87, were made out of Marion-co between Jan. 15, and Nov. 15, according to a report of the Marion County Livestock Shippers' Association.

There is a different spirit from mere division of spoils and mere rewards for those who were active in the campaign. The workers in the trenches are not to be forgotten, it is true, but fitness is also an element and each must be given its due weight. Some painstaking correspondent for one of the larger city newspapers has gone over the figures with a tooth comb. His deduction is that James A. White of the Ohio Anti-Slavery League is the man who can play the bassoon, the either or the five-stringed harp in Ohio politics and can do logarithms with election returns. With James it is not sentiment of the state as a whole that counts, which may account for the fact that he can play ducks and drakes with any politician that is made in a word, he has mastered that elementary lesson in the primer that what counts is to "get out the vote." The import of all the analysis is this, that the vote was not out, the county vote was one vote out of every four in the cities remained at home because the weather was bad, or because he or she had forgotten to register or because it was a good day to do the family washing or play golf or run motor cars or because of general indifference, but one voter in every dozen was away from the polls in the country. Experts in political manipulation ought to go to school to White as he frankly suggests in his post-election review. In some districts he only missed one out of every hundred and he was judicious enough to see that these districts of maximum efficiency were those which are usually reliably Republican. If it had not been that thousands of these voters could not be controlled, there would be no Governor-elect Donahay now. This old scribbler does not know White's intention, but whatever the multiplication charges, they are worth it!

Political enemies of United States Senator Frank B. Willis chuckled in audible tones this week when they read the news Monday that United States Senator Truman Handy Newberry had resigned his seat. When it is observed that they were enemies who grinned devilishly it is not to be inferred that they were wicked Democrats. They were not—positively. They were Republicans who yearn for the opportunity to put Frank Bartlett's well-founded form on the skids and then to give him a push. Senator Willis knows it, too. The knowledge may have been back of the reports that the good natured change in his mind on Newberry and planned to make his vote harmonize with the highly moral resolution that he drew up and had adopted as the sugar coating for the Newberry pill. Senator Willis now knows that the bitter tasted right thru and that he lacked a chocolate covering for the sugar coating. As a matter of fact of plain, hard-headed everyday politics, the Newberry case will be following Willis from this time forward and he can no more escape than he can run from his shadow. Some anti-Newberry Republican will make the issue against him, or it may be better to say that some Republican will be anti-Newberry in the primary campaign that is just four years head of him. It is dreadfully to know the anguish the good man will go thru for four long years while waiting. But it's hard to see how he can escape it. Truman played him a bad trick by resigning at this time before he got a chance to fix up the record. Maybe he had a suspicion that the rabbit vote was to leave him in the next senate. If he did, Truman was crafty in running first.

Speaking of United States Senators, here is a little bon mot from the pen of Guy E. Newark, whom every newspaper publisher and editor in Ohio knows, because Guy has been selling the wherewithal of newspapers for nearly a generation. Newark is fond of assembling the oddities and in a recent collection had this dainty comparison: "Yellow Springs boasts it is the smallest village owning a United States Senator, but graciously overlooks mentioning the size of the Senator."

Well, there's Ada, which has Senator Willis and it has a bigger Senator—a clear majority of at least 150 pounds avoirdupois, assuming of course that the whimsical printer's friend is referring only to embonpoint and such. If he means anything else, shame on him!

FAIR BOARD HAS TWO PROJECTS

Re-Lease Old Grounds or Move Show to Spencerville

WRITE-IN CHOSEN DIRECTOR

Annual Election Held at Meeting Saturday

Arrangements are on foot to hold the annual Allen-co Fair and agricultural show in Lima, in 1923.

The Allen-co Fair board, which held its annual election at the court house Saturday, is endeavoring to re-lease the Lima Driving park grounds, Dale Creeman secretary announced. So far the board has been unable to enter into any definite arrangement.

Should they be able to come to any reasonable terms with owners of the grounds, Creeman is of the opinion that a lease will be entered into at once. If this is done, the fair will have a home for several years to come.

Overtures for the lease of the park, said to have been made to the board, are being held up pending the return of Edward J. Maize from the Oklahoma oil fields. Maize is a large stockholder in the park.

Mayor Harold Cunningham, also a stockholder, stated Saturday there will probably be no trouble about leasing the grounds to the fair board if the association so desires.

WILL RETAIN BUILDING? Cunningham said he had no knowledge of any move to demolish buildings at the old fair grounds and "sub-divide the park into residence lots. This will not be done for several years, is his opinion.

His statement fits in with information given out by the fair board Saturday.

If it is found impossible to re-lease the Bellefontaine-av grounds, the next best proposal is that offered by the board by a delegation of Spencerville citizens.

The delegation, headed by Ralph Neidhardt, appeared before the board Saturday to learn if that body will consider holding the fair at Spencerville next fall.

No definite proposal was made, because Spencerville business men have been uncertain how large a guarantee will be required. Grounds near that town can be secured if needed, the board was informed.

A committee from the board composed of C. C. Arnold, Ed Young-peter and Dale Creeman, will wait on the Spencerville chamber of commerce Wednesday. A proposition will be outlined to them.

The board will take the matter under consideration, along with the matter of retaining the fair in Lima. The best offer will be accepted, Creeman intimated.

DIRECTORS ELECTED

Annual election of directors held in common pleas court room at the court house, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 2 p. m., resulted in the election of Ellis Jones, Sugar Creek-tp, to replace John Matz, former director.

Matz name was printed on the ballot, but supporters of Jones wrote his name in and put him over.

Other directors elected are: Otis Fraunfelder, American-tp; Ed Youngpeter, Marion-tp; Harry Patterson, Richland-tp; W. A. Eberman, Lima, for three years; L. I. Miller, Lima for one year.

Judges of the election were Julius Callahan, H. Lawlor and George Weber. Clerks were Roy Bowersock and A. F. Henry.

LIVESTOCK SHIPPING MARION, OHIO—Shipments of livestock valued at $155,076.87, were made out of Marion-co between Jan. 15, and Nov. 15, according to a report of the Marion County Livestock Shippers' Association.

There is a different spirit from mere division of spoils and mere rewards for those who were active in the campaign. The workers in the trenches are not to be forgotten, it is true, but fitness is also an element and each must be given its due weight. In legislative halls the halls and voters have impressed a lesson which was stated but a few days ago by President Harding, when he told the congress he thought it "latter statesmanship to support and command a policy designed to effect the larger good to the nation than merely to record the too hasty impressions of a constituency." The words, also used in connection with the ship subsidy plan, already condemned in the minds and hearts of his countrymen, are worth study by themselves. As leader of his party in Ohio, the President might well send them to Ohio to be entered in the legislative copy books. Perhaps they might have an influence upon the course of affairs as the same sentiments might have been influential in shaping policies when prosperity was pretended in the days immediately following the World War. Has the Republican party—say rather its leadership learned the lesson that blind hatred and intolerant partisan obstruction do not pay? The answer will color events in Columbus no less than at Washington.

As has been observed by this chronicler, all that the state can do is to give the people capable administration and reduce the taxes which are so grievous a burden. The situation and particularly that of the farmer is black, as the President himself admits the farmers to be "chief sufferers from the cruel reductions which follow war's inflation." The trouble, however, may be clear but the remedy is perceived not at all. Hard-headed folks have discarded the idea that more borrowing can produce results. The

Some persons will call the flopping around as between the party candidates an example of independence in voting, and some will call it mobocracy. Probably both are right, to a limited extent. Example of it in the urban counties are numerous. For instance, Governor-elect A. Vic Donahay carried Hamilton-co but the Republican county ticket went thru by 30,000 majority. He carried Franklin-co by 10,000 and yet a corps of Republican officials was elected. He narrowly lost Cuyahoga-co but the county majorities for the Republicans were staggering, a result due in part to the brand of politics played by certain of the leaders who did their utmost to keep Donahay from being nominated. Insofar as the results expressed individual judgments of voters, the outcome may be measured as a healthy sign of voting independence, a spirit even now voiced in the renewed demand for the pure form of Australian ballot, or the Massachusetts plan. Under this the candidates for offices would be grouped as on the primary election ballots and party emblems would be wiped out. The candidates for Governor would be listed merely as members of their respective parties and parties unrelated to make the voters look

S. URGES OPEN DOOR IN TURKEY

Served on Peace Conference at Lausanne

SPECIAL ZONES

Outlined at Meeting by Ambassador Child

LAUSANNE. — (United Press) — Ambassador Child, American representative to the conference, served on the peace conference at Lausanne, and outlined at a meeting by Ambassador Child the United States' demands for the open door policy in Turkey and commercial equality in all territories.

Mr. Child spoke in part as follows: "It is not and will not be the concern of the representatives of the United States to express at this conference views which have not been expressed elsewhere. The United States bases the legitimate national interests of the United States on the principle of humanitarian consideration of the rights of all peoples to share in every benefit of civilization."

"We will, however, and I trust, state when the occasion presents itself, the position of the United States. We believe that a convention of this kind is a most appropriate occasion."

"It is not unknown to those who have observed the history of the United States that few foreign policies have been considered by them. I note, referring to the specific subject under discussion, that all the various points of negotiation must in the end be considered as a unit and it is often true that not one detail can be considered as isolated from the others."

"The representatives of the United States are unable, therefore, to conclude the discussion of any territorial settlement which in its turn may effect other settlements without drawing the attention of the conference to certain fundamental principles of the foreign policy of America."

ESTABLISHMENT OF ZONES
"Reference to this policy was made in an aide-memoire delivered to the ministers of foreign affairs of the three inviting powers on October 30, less than one month ago."

"It is not felt that arrangements previously made with respect to Turkish territory which provides for the establishment of zones of special commercial and economic influence—such, for example, as the tripartite of economic operation."

"It is assumed that the allied powers will not now desire and do not now intend to carry into effect previous arrangements of this nature."

"The United States has no desire to take any action which might embarrass the allied powers in the proper effort to secure peace. It desires nothing which need conflict with the interests of other countries. If the principle of the commercial equality for all nations is recognized at the conference."

"The United States has no intention of seeking for itself or its nationals a position of special privilege, but it desires to protect its nationals and to insure the open door."

Upon concluding this reading, Ambassador Child went on: "This conference may be glad to know that the overwhelming sentiment of the people of the United States is in favor of this policy. Not only is a national policy but we which were it to be adopted by every nation on earth, would be to contrast, perhaps, to the search for territorial or other special privileges on foreign soils, a powerful element in the establishment of a stable peace, the foundation for greater equity in the relation of nation-with-nation and a basis for more progressive economic development of territories."

This emphatic reiteration of America's opposition to the division of Turkey into special zones of commercial and economic influence was regarded by the delegates as especially significant at this time when boundaries are under consideration and when the conference is about to consider Turkey's disposition of territories including the Mesopotamian oil fields."

COMING OF "THE TIGER" TO LIMA IS UNDECIDED
Whether Georges Clemenceau, former Premier of France and known as "The Tiger," will visit Lima for an address before the Open Forum, has not been decided. Elmer McClain, secretary of the Forum, announced Saturday night.

In the name of the Open Forum of this city, McClain invited Clemenceau to stop in Lima on his tour of the United States, giving to the people of America his version of the real cause of the European situation and its remedy.

Clemenceau, who is visiting the United States after an absence of 16 years, is being acclaimed wherever he appears. Before going back to his native land and attaining prominence in government affairs, Clemenceau was for some time a newspaper reporter in New York.

CHANGE IN MANAGEMENT IN NEWS ADVERTISING; BOB ASHLEY STEPS UP

Thru his entrance into a new, but wider field of work, Bob E. Ashley, four years advertising manager of The Lima News, has tendered his resignation, effective December first.

Mr. Ashley came to The News from the Springfield Sun, and has proven not only an excellent man in his department, but holds the confidence of merchants. He will enter a new field January first but has not announced the connection, and remains in an advisory capacity with us until that time.

Mr. Ashley will be succeeded next Friday by Andrew J. Grubbs, twenty years active as manager of advertising on the Ft. Wayne Sentinel and later The Journal Gazette. There will be no other change in the department, except the return this week of the good scout, Chas. G. McKinley, now back on his regular beat.

STREET CAR TICKETS TO ADVANCE IN COST TODAY; REDEEM OLD PASTEBOARDS

Street car tickets purchased by patrons of the lines prior to the change in the cost of transportation, which becomes effective today, will be honored by conductors up to and including November 30, F. A. Bundy, general superintendent, announced Saturday night.

It was originally intended and was so announced by the company, that the old tickets would not be honored after Saturday, on the cars. Owing to the fact that so many are still out, it was decided to change the plan, Bundy stated.

After November 30, old tickets still in the hands of patrons will be redeemed at the Ohio Electric station or at the general offices of the company, Room 6, Interurban-bldg. New style tickets were placed on sale Sunday, at four for 25 cents, instead of nine for 50 cents, as heretofore.

FAUROT SENDS IN GREETINGS

Booping "Ante" to $100 a Month for Another Six Months

The Faurot theatre, which was not included in the theatre day campaign for the city, because of arrangements previously made, came thru to the city fund yesterday with a cash contribution of $200. Manager Clark in making the donation in behalf of Mair Brothers, owners of the playhouse, stated it had proved impossible thru having been consulted too late on the proposal to join in the other arrangements. However, the contribution made is more than the receipts of any one of the theaters would probably have been without the extra voluntary gifts.

The letter of the Faurot theatre owners to the Commission yesterday follows:

Gentlemen:—We take pleasure in handing you herewith our check for $200, which we are contributing to the city to aid in paying our firemen and police at this time.

In connection with the above, we wish to add, that in the event you can not work out a feasible and definite plan to finance the city's future needs for the above purpose, the Faurot Opera House will volunteer a monthly payment of $100, for a period of six months, hoping at that time at least, you will have had some relief for funds thru the state legislature.

It is pleasing to know that general business conditions throughout the country are making great strides for the better, and Lima having all dependable signs for good business next year, it would be disastrous in a way to allow Lima's good record in the past to lose any of its efficiency in conducting its Police and Fire Department, as well as any of its other forms of administration.

In viewing the situation seriously, in case no relief is in sight thru some legitimate form of taxation, the writers beg leave to suggest a popular monthly subscription from our citizens.

Assuring you that we wish to co-operate with you for a BETTER LIMA at all times, we remain,

Most sincerely yours,
Mair Bros.

15 PERSONS INJURED IN STREET CAR COLLISION

PHILADELPHIA. — Fifteen persons were injured, four probably fatally, when a one-man trolley crashed into the rear end of a Catherin-st car here Saturday night. Police reserves were rushed to the scene of the accident and spirited the car crews away from an angry mob that gathered after the collision. The cause of the accident is unknown.

When these forms are received the saving stamps and certificates will be transmitted to the Federal Reserve banks and checks for their payment will be sent to the owners. Those who wish to reinvest the money in government certificates may do so immediately. Mumaugh says. There is some profit to be seen in the re-investment.

For every $25 stamp or certificate held and payable January 1, the owner may obtain a new certificate due in 1927, valued at $20.50, and $4.50 in cash Mumaugh says. Exchanges may be made any time until January 1 but cash redemptions will not be made until January 1. Stamps or certificates may be left at the postoffice for collection as soon as announcement is made that the necessary forms have been received.

Probe of Records Show Women Wed Earlier Than Men

Girls, hook 'em while you're young.

For after the 25th milestone has been turned, the chances for matrimony are not so good, marriage license records show.

With men it's different, statistics work in their favor. Examination of license records in the Allen-co court house show more than 70 per cent of men marrying are past 25 years.

Out of 50 marriages selected for examination, 30 showed the bride to be between the ages of 16 and 24. In 20 cases the age was 25 and upward.

In the same licenses examined, 36 prospective grooms were past 25 and 14 were under that age. Nineteen instances were found where both the bride and groom were past 24 and in 13 cases both were less than 24.

In nine out of every 10 licenses examined the man was older than the woman. Which might be construed to show that men on an average marry later in life than women.

The difference in ages will average about three years in most cases.

PUBLIC MIND IS IN TURMOIL

Speeding Events Sweep Folks Off Their Feet

WHAT DONAHEY IS FACING

Recent Vote Continues Subject for Analysis

THE LIMA NEWS BUREAU, Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 21. COLUMBUS — (Special) — It is worth recording in this season when father is troubled by the high price of turkey and mother is wondering whether she cannot make last winter's coat do another season (on account of the tariff, you know) and President Harding is trying to talk the American people into voting money out of their treasury and another income tax installment is coming due and December state and local taxes are in sight that there are at least two favorable imprints in prospect for Ohio affairs. The first of these is that goodness of heart or pleasant fall weather or something, at least, moves every man and woman, too, of the incoming Ohio General Assembly to assure that no cheap politics is to be played in the forthcoming session, but that a spirit of co-operation will be extended to Governor-elect A. Victor Donahey. The second is that A. Victor is not being swept off his feet by the rush of office-seekers in the midst of troubles and taxes and tariff exactions these two things offer some little respite to the beleaguered citizen. Frankly, of course, they will not improve his or her economic prospects, but they promise at least something of the atmosphere of tranquillity and peace so badly needed here and abroad in state affairs, they ought to promise a short legislative session and reduced appropriations and a cut in the tax rates. This is about all that the state government can offer people. But it would be so different from what has been endured—no, not endured—that it would be something.

Back of the premises for co-operation much may be seen in the remarkable independence of the voters to be seen in the statements as a solid, even if threatening background. The overturns in the national elections carry the threat of a rod in pickle for statesmen and the resignation of Senator Truman H. Newberry of Michigan is not without its sobering effect. Nor will the state in many a day forget the Court Judge Benson W. Hough with its own implication of most solemn admonition that government neither here nor at Washington is a plaything of selfish personal or political interest, but that the people of Ohio know what is theirs and intend to maintain it. Nor can the vote be interpreted as anything more than a vote afforded the new judges to put their separate ideas of what constitutes proper respect for the people of the people. Disputing the language of Supreme Court Judge Thomas A. Jones, the people have not forgotten that their eyes are upon the new holders of official powers.

Determination of Governor-elect Donahey to absorb all the information possible, to act as a sort of sponge for a time and to go home to the bosom of his family quietly to digest the facts he has gleaned will impress. But it's hard to see how he can escape it. Truman played him a bad trick by resigning at this time before he got a chance to fix up the record. Maybe he had a suspicion that the rabbit vote was to leave him in the next senate. If he did, Truman was crafty in running first.

There is a different spirit from mere division of spoils and mere rewards for those who were active in the campaign. The workers in the trenches are not to be forgotten. It is true but fitness is also an element and each must be given its due weight. In legislative halls the halls and voters have impressed a lesson which was stated but a few days ago by President Harding when he told the congress he thought it "latter statesmanship to support and command a policy designed to effect the larger good to the nation than merely to record the too hasty impressions of a constituency." The words, also used in connection with the ship subsidy plan, already condemned in the minds and hearts of his countrymen, are worth study by themselves. As for the party in Ohio, the President might well send them to Ohio to be entered in the legislative copy books. Perhaps they might have an influence upon the course of affairs as the same sentiments might have been influential in shaping policies when prosperity was prevented in the days immediately following the World War. Has the Republican party—say rather its leadership learned the lesson that blind hatred and intolerant partisan obstruction do not pay? The answer will color events in Columbus no less than at Washington.

As has been observed by this chronicler, all that the state can do is to give the people capable administration and reduce the taxes which are so grievous a burden. The situation and particularly that of the farmer is black, as the President himself admits the farmers to be the "chief sufferers from the cruel readjustments which follow war's inflation." The trouble, however, may be clear but the remedy is perceived not at all. Hard-headed folks have discarded the idea that more borrowing can produce results. The ernment help to more loans will do imperative need is for markets. Gov. Willis for the land-owners whose domains are likely to be sold at the courthouses. The volume of debt is already staggering and when December tax-paying time comes around, as it inevitably will, more farmers will go to the bank to borrow money. As inevitably as it will be borrowed it must be repaid and credits cannot repay the loans. It's worth while to stick a pin there, for doubtless wild-eyed dreamers will have new projects to deceive, not to aid the sufferers.

Preliminary to any further activity in the whilom pursuit of ideas political there should be classes for the study of the vote of 1922. Some painstaking correspondent for one of the larger city newspapers has gone over the figures with a fine tooth comb. His deduction is that James A. White of the Ohio Anti-Slavery League is the man who can play the bassoon, the either or the five-stringed harp in Ohio politics and can do logarithms with election returns. With James it is not sentiment of the state as a whole that counts, which may account for the fact that he can play ducks and drakes with any polls that are made. In a word, he has mastered that elementary lesson in the primer that what counts is to "get out the vote." The import of all the analysis is this: that the city vote was not out of every four in the cities remained at home because the weather was nice, or because he or she had forgotten to register, or because it was a good day to go to the family washing or play golf or run motor cars or because of general indifference, but one voter in every dozen was away from the polls in the country. Expects in political manipulation ought to go to school to White as he frankly suggests in his post-election review. In some districts he only missed one out of every hundred and he was judicious enough to select that district of maximum efficiency were those which are usually reliably Republican. If it had not been that thousands of these voters could not be controlled, there would be no Governor-elect Donahey now. This old myth does not know White's tuition rates, but whatever the manipulation charges, they are worth it.

Political enemies of United States Senator Frank B. Willis chuckled in audible tones this week when they read the news Monday that United States Senator Truman Handy Newberry had resigned his seat. When it is observed that they were enemies who grinned devilishly it is not to be inferred that they were wicked Democrats. They were not—positively. They were Republicans who yearn for the opportunity to put Frank Butlett's well-rounded form on the skids and then to give him a push. Senator Willis knows it, too. The knowledge may have been back of the reports that the good man had changed his mind on Newberry and planned to make his vote harmonious with the highly moral resolution that he drew up and had adopted as the sugar coating for the Newberry pill. Senator Willis now knows that the bitter tasted right thru and that he lacked a chocolate covering for the sugar coating. As a matter of fact of plain, hard-headed everyday politics the Newberry case will be following Willis from this time forward and he can no more escape than he can run from his shadow. Some anti-Newberry Republican will make the issue against him, or it may be better to say that some Republican will be anti-Newberry in the primary campaign that is just four years ahead of him. It's dreadful to know the anguish the good man will go thru for four long years while waiting. But it's hard to see how he can escape it. Truman played him a bad trick by resigning at this time before he got a chance to fix up the record. Maybe he had a suspicion that the rabbit vote was to leave him in the next senate. If he did, Truman was crafty in running first.

Speaking of United States Senators there is a little boy not out of the pen of Guy E. Newark, whom every newspaper publisher and editor in Ohio knows, because Guy has been selling the wherewithal of newspapers for nearly a generation. Newark is fond of assembling the oddities and in a recent collection had this dainty comparison:

"Yellow Springs boasts it is the smallest village owning a United States Senator, but graciously overlooks mentioning the size of the Senator."

Well, there's Ada, which has Senator Willis and it has a bigger Senator—by a clear majority of at least 150 pounds avoidpounds, assuming of course that the whimsical printer's friend is referring only to embonpoint and such. If he means anything else, shame on him!

Much depends upon the point of view. This is either a sound philosophical principle or a platitude—again depending upon the point of view. Some persons will call the flopping around as between the party candidates an example of independence in voting and some will call it "mobocracy." Probably both are right, to a limited extent. Examples of it in the urban counties are numerous. For instance, Governor-elect A. Vic Donahey carried Hamilton-co but the Republican county ticket went thru by 30,000 majority. He carried Franklin-co by 10,000 and yet a corps of Republican officials was elected. He narrowly lost Cuyahoga-co but the county majorities for the Republicans were staggering, a result due in part to the brand of politics played by certain of the leaders who did their utmost to keep Donahey from being nominated. Insofar as the results expressed individual judgments of voters, the outcome may be measured as a healthy sign of voting independence. A split even now voted in the renewed demand for the pure form of Australian ballot, or the Massachusetts plan. Under this the candidates for offices would be grouped as on the primary election ballots and party emblems would be wiped out. The candidates for Governor would be listed merely as members of their respective parties and parties even rotated to make the voters look more sharply for the names. Still, they can switch lines without help under the existing rules and they can find the political weakness in the ticket line-up quickly. But there is another side to the story. With the laxity of party restraints some evil passions enter. Religion—prejudice—sinister thing—may be traced in the returns very clearly—too clearly.

It was once asserted that the maximum variation in party vote for the state was as 100,000 for the state as a whole. This was founded upon such elections as 1908 and 1910 in 1908 William Howard Taft carried Ohio by 70,000 and Judson Harmon was elected Governor by 20,000. The following two years saw Harmon running 32,000 ahead of the tail-end on the ticket, the all the Democrats went into power. But consider that in this year there was a variation in one county of 101,000. Prosecuting Attorney Edward C. Stanton, a Republican, was re-elected in Cuyahoga-co by 65,000 majority, while the same voters chose John A. Zangre county auditor by 36,000 majority. Such a record of scratched tickets has never before been known. On a smaller scale the same story may be told for a dozen different communities. Sometimes it is emotionalism that brought about the result. At other times, indefensible prejudices contributed to it. Out of it may come good if it teaches those who make nominations to select the best and not hope to cover bad material at the bottom with a strong power. But it may come harm if it encourages playing to trouble-making minorities.

While the merit of the civil service system is under attack from many influential quarters it is well that the people of Ohio pay heed to a bit of testimony on the other side. A New York grand jury in reviewing the shocking scandal in the federal prohibition department in that state observed that the "office seems to have been made the dumping ground for influential politicians who secure appointments for their henchmen without proper regard for the qualifications of those chosen." Perhaps, a defense may be made for certain Ohio appointments in that the sponsors were not "influential politicians," but just plain, garden variety politicians. In Ohio, the department, led by the example of Director Roy A. Hayes, did valiant service for the party and some of the shining lights of the "enforcement" division, including Sherman A. Cuneo and one H. M. Paul, honored the Republican committee payroll with their names. From this one might infer that the evil of demon rum had been considered entirely, or again it might be inferred that a little matter like catching up with the bootleggers is a mere detail that can be attended to at any old time. What's the answer?

In one of the plays of the late William Shakespeare he has one of his actors say that "conscience doth make cowards of us all." But had he lived in more modern times he might say that stenographers do make ungrammatical writers of us all. Which serves to recall an incident in Ohio history when a dignified commissioner informed a city that a certain question had not been "judicially" determined and led the still more dignified court to believe that he was poking sly fun at the sacred ermine. But here now comes Hon. Harry A. Daugherty, the duly acting and legally qualified Attorney General of the United States, to request "respectively" that there be forwarded to him the charges upon which his impeachment is sought. Alas, alas, what these stenographers can do!

FAIR BOARD HAS TWO PROJECTS

Re-Lease Old Grounds or Move Show to Spencerville

WRITE-IN CHOSEN DIRECTOR

Annual Election Held at Meeting Saturday

Arrangements are on foot to hold the annual Allen-co Fair and agricultural show in Lima, in 1923. The Allen-co Fair board, which held its annual election at the court house Saturday, is endeavoring to re-lease the Lima Driving park grounds, Dale Creman secretary announced. So far the board has been unable to enter into any definite arrangement. Should they be able to come to any reasonable terms with owners of the grounds, Creman is of the opinion that a lease will be entered into at once. If this is done, the fair will have a home for several years to come.

Overtures for the lease of the park, said to have been made to the board, are being held up pending the return of Edward J. Mair from the Oklahoma oil fields. Mair is a large stockholder in the park. Mayor Harold Cunningham, also a stockholder, stated Saturday there will probably be no trouble about leasing the grounds to the fair board if the association so desires. WILL RETAIN BUILDING. Cunningham said he had no knowledge of any move to demolish the buildings at the old fair grounds and sub-divide the park into residence lots. This will not be done for several years, is his opinion.

His statement fits in with information given out by the fair board Saturday. If it is found impossible to re-lease the Bellefontaine-av grounds, the next best proposal is that offered the board by a delegation of Spencerville citizens.

The delegation, headed by Ralph Neidhardt, appeared before the board Saturday to learn if that body will consider holding the fair at Spencerville next fall. No definite proposal was made, because Spencerville business men have been uncertain how large a guarantee will be required. Grounds near that town can be secured if needed, the board was informed.

A committee from the board composed of C. Arnold, Ed Young, Peter and Dale Creman, will wait on the Spencerville chamber of commerce Wednesday. A proposition will be outlined to them.

The board will take the matter under consideration, along with the matter of retaining the fair in Lima. The best offer will be accepted, Creman intimated.

Annual election of directors held in common pleas court room at the court house, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 2 p. m., resulted in the election of Ellis Jones, Sugar Creek, to replace John Martz, former director.

Martz name was printed on the ballot, but supporters of Jones wrote his name in and put him over. Other directors elected are: Otis Fraunfelder, American-twp.; Ed Young, Marion-twp.; Harry Patterson, Richland-twp.; W. A. Eberman, Lima, for three years; L. L. Miller, Lima for one year.

Judges of the election were Julius Callahan, H. Lawlor and George Weber. Clerks were Roy Bowersock and A. E. Henry.

Physicians and surgeons of Allen-co were accorded thanks at the meeting for their participation in activities of the association.

BURGLAR ALARM ARRIVES HERE

Signal System Will be Installed at Once

PROTECTION FOR BANKERS

Lanker Wants Work Rushed to Completion

Burglar alarms for banks and jewelry shops in Lima, announced more than two months ago by Chief of Police T. A. Lanker, have arrived in the city and are ready for installation. The work of perfecting the signal alarm system and cutting it over for use by the police department will be rushed at once, Lanker announced Saturday night. An attempt will be made to have the entire system installed and operating by the end of the week. Every bank in Lima and practically all of the jewelry stores will be protected by the system, Lanker said.

FLASH SIGNAL. It will be electrically operated. Tampering with locks, doors, windows or combinations in any of the places protected by it, will immediately flash a signal to the desk sergeant at police headquarters indicating the location of the trouble. This will enable a squad of policemen to rush to the scene before those who set off the signal can make their escape. Under arrangements made by banks, jewelry stores and city officials, the expense of the system will be borne by those desiring the protection. The system will hook up directly with the recently installed used by the police department. "Because of the depletion of the force at present," said, "and because of possible cuts in the department, not afford to be without this alarm any longer."

ARREST THREAT RESULT FROM COLD STREET

Stanton threatened openly John J. Stanley, president of the railway company, arrested if he did not heat the cars at once. After a consultation with other officials Stanley announced as many cars as possible would be heated with the limited supply on hand.

The only cars heated, however, the 450 operating on regular extra cars placed in service the morning and evening runs are not to be heated, because coal shortage.

REO MAKES FAST DESERT TIME

Stock Car Makes Better Time Than Racing Cars

Reminiscences of the famous Los Angeles to Phoenix road race—the "Desert Classic"—that brought name and fame to Barney Oldfield and a half dozen other speed pilots are recalled by Russell Baker, of the Reo-Baker company, who has just received a telegram announcing the fact that the Reo Touring Car has established a new record having made the round trip in less time than the racing cars have ever done it.

"The original course for this event was laid out by Charles H. Bigelow, in the summer of 1908," says Mr. Baker.

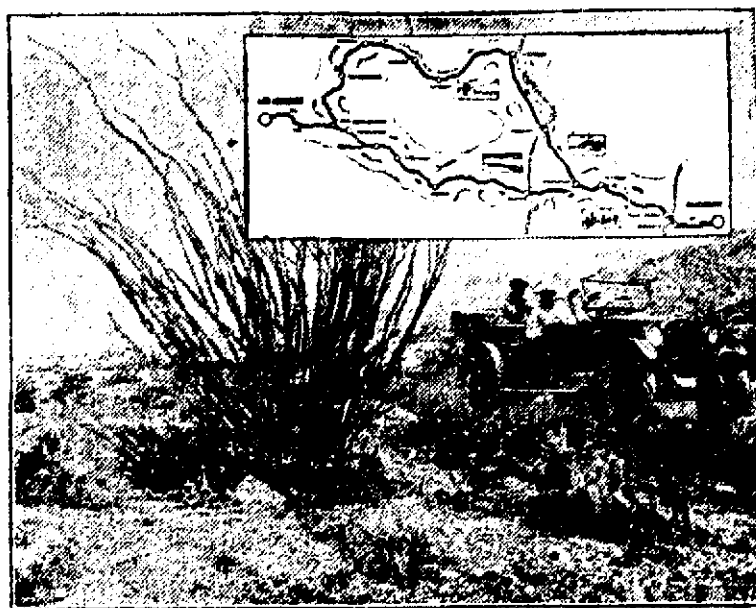

"Bigelow's first reconnaissance trip was made in a two-cylinder Reo and his tour to Phoenix and return was the first round trip ever made between the two cities by automobile."

"It was only fitting, in this connection, that Bigelow, again at the wheel of a Reo, should pilot the six-cylinder touring car in its record-breaking round trip run between the two cities, smashing the previous time for the distance by almost three hours despite heat and frequent cloudbursts and sand storms."

"Thoroughly familiar with the route followed thru his experience in the Phoenix road races of 1909-11-12 Bigelow was able to maintain exceptional speed throughout the round trip run. Road conditions are little if any better in some places than they were in those days and rains and cloudbursts had cut the sides of the washes so that great care had to be exercised in their crossing."

"Springs, axles, wheels and every mechanical detail of the car stood up under the severe test."

"The former record for the round trip between Los Angeles and Phoenix of thirty-seven hours, forty-six minutes, was made more than a year ago, until the Reo established the new mark last week this time had not even been approached. The Reo's time, according to information received, was thirty-four hours, forty-eight minutes, and was elapsed time, the only deduction made being in control at Phoenix while Bigelow and his crew were securing a few hours of much needed sleep."

PROPER CARE OF STORAGE BATTERY

Needs Exactly the Care That You Give the Engine

There recently appeared in the Chicago Daily News, an article by Mr. Erwin Greer, President of the Groer College of Automotive Engineering under the title of "Take Care of Your Battery," which Mr. Kidder of the local Willard Service Station says contains real battery information. The article follows:

If you want to obtain low cost of battery service on your car you must do three things: You must have a standard battery, you must see that it is serviced properly, and you must give a certain amount of attention yourself.

If you consider the cost of a battery and the work it has to do you will readily realize that it needs exactly the care that you give the engine.

There are now on the market more than 100 different makes of storage batteries. Out of this number a good percentage are virtually worthless when compared with top-notch batteries made by responsible concerns. The worthless ones are sometimes called "back alley" batteries, because they are made in hams, garages and shops that have no recognition. It does not take any particular skill or experience to make such batteries. The plates are purchased from one source, boxes, jars and electrolyte from others, and as the parts are put together and the resultant called a storage battery.

If the parts were properly made and correlated a good battery could be produced, but such a battery would then have to sell at such a stiff price as compared with the reputable makes that the alloy builders could not compete. So the motorist is asked to buy these put-together batteries at a low price, sometimes at a high price. It does not matter much about the price, for the motorist "gets stuck" either way.

If you need a battery, buy one made by a reputable firm. That does not necessarily mean a large manufacturer who advertises his wares all over the country, because there are many smaller battery makers who haven't the distribution nor the advertising volume. The battery business is one that must be studied in order to produce a good unit at low cost. This study calls for constant experimental work in every branch of manufacture, and this is something the "back alley" builders do not care to do.

Once you possess a good battery the next thing to do is to give it the care it deserves. All you have to do is to add distilled water once each week in summer and once every two weeks in winter or at such intervals as found necessary to keep the cells filled to level. Aside from this simple procedure see to it that the terminals are clean and tight and the battery as a unit is mounted solidly in place. If a white or green deposit appears on one of the terminals little or no current will flow into or out of the battery. Disconnect the terminal and scrape off the deposit, wipe the terminal dry and cover with a light coat of grease or vaseline.

DISTILLED WATER ONLY
Never add anything but distilled water. There are some garages and even battery service stations that will try to sell you some special electrolyte to "revive" the battery. These special solutions should not be used, for while it is perfectly possible to add chemicals temporarily to revive any battery it harms the battery in the end. If the battery is so far gone that it will not take a charge, special electrolyte will give it only temporary relief at great cost.

See to it that the generator charging rate is low or high enough to keep the battery up to charge. Some drivers do little continuous driving with the result that the battery is undercharged. Others do constant driving and little starting and stopping with the result that the battery is usually over-charged. It is difficult to anticipate driving conditions, therefore the wise owner occasionally has the battery charged at a service station. If possible go to a reputable station where the shop equipment is adequate and where an honest opinion will be given.

POPULAR BOURGHAM TYPE DATES BACK TO 1915; FIRST INTRODUCED BY FRANKLIN

By WILLES E. HYDAKER
Manager Lima Franklin Co.

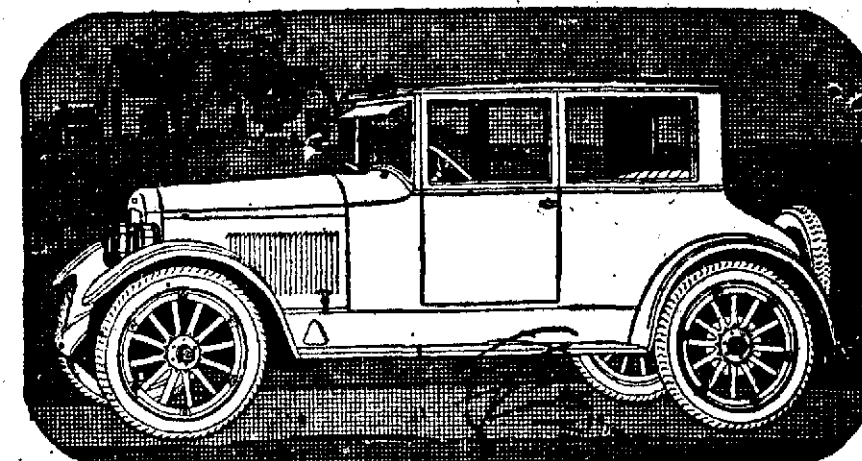

The present popularity of the two-door type of closed car, now commonly termed the Brougham, focuses attention on the fact that this design, as applied to four-passenger cars, dates back to 1915, when it was first introduced in the original Brougham manufactured by the Franklin Company. As early as 1913, the five passenger Franklin Sedan incorporated the same construction. Since those dates, no less than thirteen other American makes of Broughams have been announced.

S. P. Ackerman, sales manager of the Franklin Automobile Company, in commenting on the fact that the Franklin Brougham is now entering its eighth year with its fundamental principles practically unchanged, says: "The Brougham has found a permanent niche among American body types primarily because of its compactness and companionability. The Franklin Brougham, however, an additional hold upon a lion of the motoring public, other designers early saw other features had to be borne in mind as well—access. It is not an easy task to design a two-door car (cupants of the rear seat) and out without disturbing seated in front. The wide the lifting. Pullman front the answer to the problem these two fundamental ctics have been incorporated Franklin Brougham built past seven years."

A Car Without a Compromise

COLD WEATHER BRINGS MOTORISTS TO ACCESSORY AND BATTERY SHOPS FOR NEEDS

BATTERY SHOULD WEATTENTION

the Mercury Begins to Drop It Is Time to Act

When the mercury begins to drop it is time for you to lay plans for the storage of batteries. Climatic conditions in certain localities make it imperative, and every car owner has a duty to his car that the battery does not suffer for want of proper care. C. L. Terry, Prest-O-Lite representative, says:

Cold weather adds additional strains to a battery. A cold engine is more difficult to start than a warm one. The extra demands come when the battery itself has lower efficiency due to lower temperature.

In this run-down condition it may be at 80 degrees above zero while it is fully charged it will not freeze at below zero.

The care of batteries in winter time is an important feature of Prest-O-Lite service.

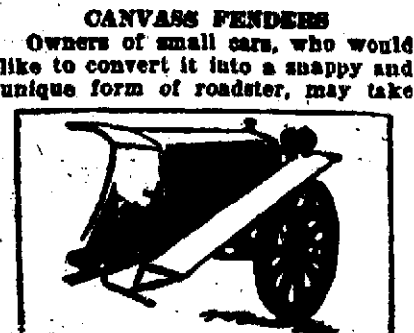

To those who drive their cars thru the winter season, it is well to keep well charged and the solution advised to the proper density.

MAXWELL MAKES GOOD RECORD

Twenty-six hundred miles in two weeks with a Maxwell touring car without the slightest adjustment, was the gratifying experience of R. J. Tooker, of the Gilden Store Company, Birmingham.

Of his experience, Mr. Tooker writes: "I have driven this car over 1,600 miles without having any adjustment, without doing anything to the car except keeping it well oiled and supplied with gasoline."

"I recently made a trip thru North Alabama and on the return route, from Russellville to Jasper, encountered bad roads that had been used for logging. I went over these roads in a heavy rain storm and got stuck in the mud four times between Lynn and Jasper. I was satisfied that if there had been any defects in the mechanism or anything wrong mechanically, in connection with the car, it certainly would have shown itself as a result of the punishment I was forced to give it in order to work my way thru these roads."

CANVASS FENDERS
Owners of small cars, who would like to convert it into a snappy and unique form of roadster, may take this hint. Instead of the regular front fenders a canvas guard may be stretched as shown. A couple of coil springs at the lower end will keep the guard from sagging.

1923 BUICK HAS MANY CHANGES

Engineers Have Gone to the Very Heart of Mechanism

As remarkable as are the improvements in Buick body lines, finish and appointments, they tell but a small part of the 1923 achievement. The changes that have been made from an appearance standpoint are at once visible, but they only serve to indicate the great things that have been done to make the new Buick car more mechanically perfect.

Buick engineers have gone to the very heart of the mechanism. Nothing have they left undone to promote increased efficiency, greater accessibility and durability. And they have not overlooked refinements that improve Buick riding qualities, ease, smoothness and silence of operation.

The changes that have been made to improve the efficiency and life of the car are exceptional in their number and character.

Out of the many seasons of Buick cars has developed the new line, fundamentally Buick, yet surpassing by far anything that Buick has ever before offered the motoring public. Every change has passed the severe tests of Buick engineers; everything that it has been possible to do has been done to make Buick a better car.

The excellence of the complete line, combined with the astonishing prices, has established a precedent not only in the history of Buick but also in the history of the motor car industry.

ENCLOSED CARS HAVE THE PREFERENCE WHEN THE RIGORS OF WINTER START

REO MAKES FAST DESERT TIME

Stock Car Makes Better Time Than Racing Cars

Reminiscences of the famous Los Angeles to Phoenix road race—the "Desert Classic"—that brought name and fame to Barney Oldfield and a half dozen other speed pilots are recalled by Russell Baker, of the Reo-Baker company, who has just received a telegram announcing the fact that the Reo Touring Car has established a new record having made the round trip in less time than the racing cars have ever done it.

"The original course for this event was laid out by Charles H. Bigelow, in the summer of 1908," says Mr. Baker.

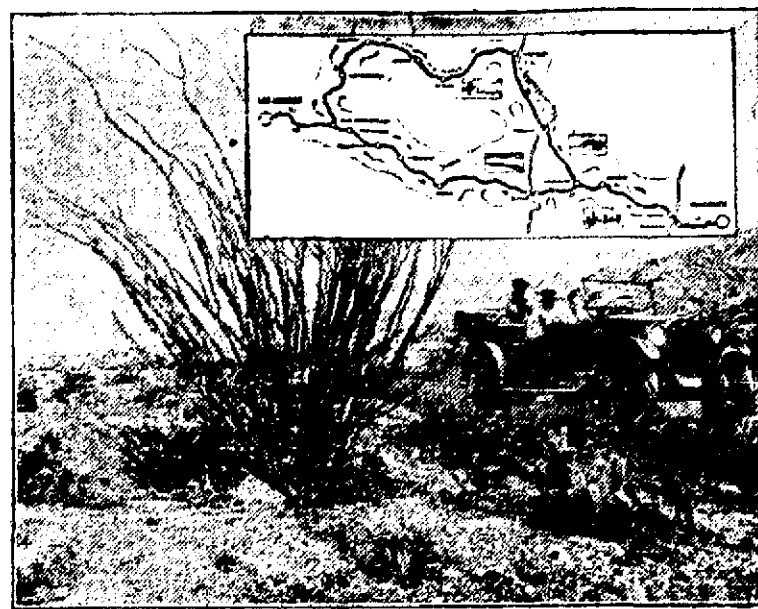

"Bigelow's first reconnaissance trip was made in a two-cylinder Reo and his tour to Phoenix and return was the first round trip ever made between the two cities by automobile.

"It was only fitting, in this connection, that Bigelow, again at the wheel of a Reo, should pilot the six-cylinder touring car in its record-breaking round trip run between the two cities, smashing the previous time for the distance by almost three hours despite heat and frequent cloudbursts and sand storms.

"Thoroughly familiar with the route followed thru his experience in the Phoenix road races of 1909-11-12 Bigelow was able to maintain exceptional speed throughout the round trip run. Road conditions are little if any better in some places than they were in those days and rains and cloudbursts had cut the sides of the washes so that great care had to be exercised in their crossing.

"Springs, axles, wheels and every mechanical detail of the car stood up under the severe test.

"The former record for the round trip between Los Angeles and Phoenix of thirty-seven hours, forty-six minutes, was made more than a year ago, until the Reo established the new mark last week this time had not even been approached. The Reo's time, according to information received, was thirty-four hours, forty-eight minutes, and was elapsed time, the only deduction made being in control at Phoenix while Bigelow and his crew were securing a few hours of much needed sleep.

PROPER CARE OF STORAGE BATTERY

Needs Exactly the Care That You Give the Engine

There recently appeared in the Chicago Daily News, an article by Mr. Erwin Greer, President of the Greer College of Automotive Engineering under the title of "Take Care of Your Battery," which Mr. Kildner of the local Willard Service Station says contains real battery information. The article follows:

If you want to obtain low cost of battery service on your car you must do three things: You must have a standard battery, you must see that it is serviced properly, and you must give a certain amount of attention yourself.

If you consider the cost of a battery and the work it has to do you will readily realize that it needs exactly the care that you give the engine.

There are now on the market more than 100 different makes of storage batteries. Out of this number a good percentage are virtually worthless when compared with top-notch batteries made by responsible concerns. The worthless ones are sometimes called "back alley" batteries, because they are made in filled to level. Aside from this similar, garages and shops that have no recognition. It does not take any particular skill or experience to make such batteries. The plates are purchased from one source, boxes, jars and electrolyte from others, and the parts are put together and the resultant called a storage battery.

If the parts were properly made and correlated a good battery could be produced, but such a battery would then have to sell at such a stiff price as compared with the reputable makes that the alley builders could not compete. So the motorist is asked to buy these put-together batteries at a low price, sometimes at a high price. It does not matter much about the price, for the motorist "gets stuck" either way.

If you need a battery, buy one made by a reputable firm. That does not necessarily mean a large manufacturer who advertises his wares all over the country, because there are many smaller battery makers who haven't the distribution nor the advertising volume. The battery business is one that must be studied in order to produce a good unit at low cost. This study calls for constant experimental work in every branch of manufacture, and this is something the "back alley" builders do not care to do.

Once you possess a good battery the next thing to do is to give it the care it deserves. All you have to do is to add distilled water once each week in summer and once every two weeks in winter or at such intervals as found necessary to keep the cells series, because they are made in filled to level. Aside from this simple procedure see to it that the terminals are clean and tight and the battery as a unit is mounted solidly in place. If a white or green deposit appears on one of the terminals little or no current will flow into or out of the battery. Disconnect the terminal and scrape off the deposit, wipe the terminal dry and cover with a light coat of grease or vaseline.

DISTILLED WATER ONLY
Never add anything but distilled water. There are some garages and even battery service stations that will try to sell you some special electrolyte to "revive" the battery. These special solutions should not be used, for while it is perfectly possible to add chemicals temporarily to revive any battery it harms the battery in the end. If the battery is so far gone that it will not take a charge, special electrolyte will give it only temporary relief at great cost.

See to it that the generator charging rate is low or high enough to keep the battery up to charge. Some drivers do little continuous driving with the result that the battery is undercharged. Others do constant driving and little starting and stopping with the result that the battery is usually over-charged. It is difficult to anticipate driving conditions, therefore the wise owner occasionally has the battery charged at a service station. If possible go to a reputable station where the shop equipment is adequate and where an honest opinion will be given.

SALE USED CARS AT NASH CO.

POPULAR BOURGHAM TYPE DATES BACK TO 1915; FIRST INTRODUCED BY FRANKLIN

By WILLES E. HYDAKER
Manager Lima Franklin Co.

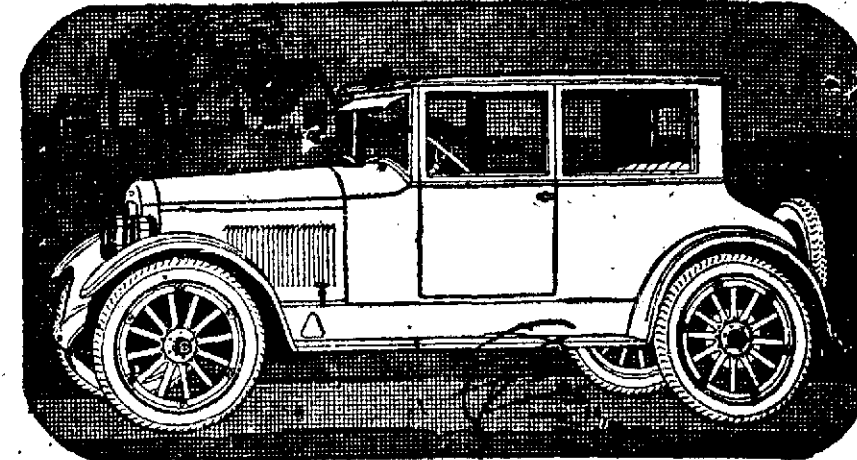

The present popularity of the two-door type of closed car, now commonly termed the Brougham, focuses attention on the fact that this design, as applied to four-passenger cars, dates back to 1915, when it was first introduced in the original Brougham manufactured by the Franklin Company. As early as 1915, the five passenger Franklin Sedan incorporated the same construction. Since these dates, no less than thirteen other American makes of Broughams have been announced.

S. E. Ackerman, sales manager of the Franklin Automobile Company, in commenting on the fact that the Franklin brougham is now entering its eighth year with its fundamentals practically unchanged, says: "The brougham has found a permanent niche among American body types primarily because of its compactness and companionability. The Franklin brougham, however, an additional hold upon a tion of the motoring public. Our designers early saw other features had to be borne in mind as well—access. It is not an easy design to design a two-door car with the rear seat seated in front. The wide the tilting Pullman front the answer to the problem these two fundamental c ties have been incorporated Franklin brougham built past seven years."

CAR PRODUCTION REACHING HIGHEST POINT-MILLION FORD CARS IN NINE MONTHS

OUTPUT RECORD IS FORD'S BEST

Million Cars and Trucks Made by Company in Short Time

One million Ford cars and trucks were built by the Ford Motor company plants in nine months and 12 days.

This is the greatest period of production in history.

The motor number of the one millionth car this year is 6,638,071. Never before has the company built 1,000,000 cars and trucks in so short a period.

One million cars and trucks were built in 1921, but the production figures did not exceed the million mark until the closing month's statistics had been obtained.

With production figures during the summer months reaching far ahead of those of the corresponding period of last year, it was foreseen that the million mark would be beaten easily and with more than two months' output to spare.

The ever-increasing demand for Ford cars was felt not only in the United States but in foreign countries and the slogan, "Make 1922 Greatest Ford Year" has been carried out with remarkable success.

Before the year ends, it is expected that a production record will be set that will be the most stupendous output for a year's work in the annals of automobile history.

The total number of Ford cars and trucks built during 10 months of last year was exceeding the Ford, Ontario plant, 855,223.

By building 121,765 cars and trucks in October the American plants of the company not only exceeded the production record of September this year by more than 22,000 cars and trucks but also set a new record for September output.

The Buenos Aires plant built 1,615 cars and trucks in October; Copenhagen, 921; Manchester, 2,048; Cadiz, 566; Sao Paulo, 399 and Bordeaux, 1,136. Each foreign plant's output during October was greater than that of the previous month, with only one exception, Bordeaux.

MAN IS SLUGGED

Section Worker Attacked With Coupling Pin

Steve Dury, Erie railroad section worker, stuck his head out of the bunk car in which he resides, Saturday night, in answer to a rap on the door.

Twenty minutes later a physician was applying bandages to his head after three stitches were necessitated to close a wound.

Dury had been struck on the head with a six pound iron coupling pin used to hook freight cars together.

His assailant made good his escape.

People in the vicinity of the bunk car which was on a siding near the Erie depot, heard Dury cry after being hit. They rushed to his side just in time to see the flowing form of an unidentified man. The coupling pin was picked up where Dury lay.

Police were called. Nothing in the car had been disturbed, they reported. Dury had no money on him.

DORT MAKES BIG TEST RECORD

Endurance Run Paves Way for Great Australian Project

Three Dort stock touring cars, equipped with special bodies, have traversed under their own power the roadless wastes of the Australian continent, crossing unbridged streams, ploughing through deep desert sands, slashing through grass six feet high, and rolling back into the streets of Adelaide with a mileage of 5,544 miles in just 67 days, according to Mr. Harpster of the local Dort agency, S. Elizabeth and Water-sts.

This marvelous expedition, made because Australian government officials wanted first hand information regarding proposed routes for a transcontinental railroad, was the 1922 sensation of Australian motordom.

Thomas McCallum, member of the legislative council of southern Australia, Capt. S. S. Whyte, prominent ornithologist, W. Crowder of the Australian land office, Murray Aunger, expert pilot, Donald McCallum and Cyril Aunger made the trip.

Camel trains went on ahead of the expedition with large quantities of gasoline, oil and supplies.

Previously no automobiles had crossed Australia under their own power. The three Dorts came back into Adelaide in excellent condition and demonstrated their supreme fitness for any test.

AUTO SERVICE IS EXTENDED

Extension of service afforded by more than 60 automobile clubs of Ohio has become an important factor in the motoring public comprising a membership of 70,000 or more.

The service has grown to such an extent that it is uniform throughout the state where there is an organization affiliated with the Ohio State Automobile association.

Lima Automobile club is one of the 60 big motor organizations in the state offering service to its members, and the members of other clubs.

Members of other clubs, not only in Ohio, but other states touring thru, can take advantage of service to members.

If he or she meets with some mishap to his or her car in a strange community, the trouble is relieved quickly.

By telephoning headquarters of the nearest club, the car will be towed in to a garage for repairs.

It is not necessary now to wait for some farmer to come by with a team and pull the car out, at an exorbitant price.

Lima Automobile Club offers this service and keeps open house not only on week days, but on Sundays and holidays as well. Many clubs of the state are also to distribute the 1923 auto license tags in the cities where they are located. New clubs are springing up in many cities of the state, Ironton and Mt. Vernon, are among the recent additions to the circle.

DANCES FEATURE
OPENING DAY OF
HOLIDAY SEASON

Strollers Will Entertain Younger Set at Elks' Club
Wednesday—Society Watches Approaching
Wheeler-Enck Nuptials

WITH the fast approach of the holidays, activity prevails and society is on "tiptoe." Interesting and extensive are the plans, which are already being discussed and anticipated for the Christmas season when hospitality is more the keynote in social arrangements than in months.

Thanksgiving Day announcements, which have not been altogether overshadowed by the importance of the Christmas entertainments, include quite a few dances, planned in celebration of this important day.

The younger social set will enjoy a Thanksgiving dance to be given Wednesday evening at the Elks' Home by the members of the Strollers' club. The committee in charge includes Robert Gregg, chairman; Earl Brown, Walter Wallace and Claude Wetherill.

Knights of Columbus will entertain with their Thanksgiving dance Wednesday evening while Thursday evening, the Elks' will observe the season with a dance.

Much interest centers in the marriage of Miss Dorothy Wheeler, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Wheeler, and James Orchard Enck, son of Mrs. Henry S. Enck, which will be solemnized next Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at Christ Episcopal church.

Miss Wheeler will be attended by Miss Helen Johnson while Harold Churchill will officiate as groomsmen.

The Rev. Kirk B. O'Ferrall, formerly pastor of Christ Episcopal church, now of Cleveland, will perform the ceremony. Rev. O'Ferrall will be assisted by the Rev. Victor Smith.

A wedding breakfast will follow the ceremony, after which Mrs. Enck and her bride will leave on a wedding trip to Chicago and Indianapolis. Upon their return to this city they will make their home with the bridegroom's mother for the present.

In compliment to Mrs. George W. Barnes, Muskego, Okla., Mrs. Dwight Goodyear, W. Market-st., welcomed a small coterie of guests at a prettily appointed 1 o'clock luncheon at her home, Friday.

Places were arranged for Mrs. Mary Barnes Scott, Toledo; Mrs. E. D. Ziegler, Tulsa, Okla.; Mrs. William Page, Marshall, Ill.; Mrs. Frank Mitchell, Mrs. Alan D. Kinsley, Mrs. L. S. Galvin, Mrs. Barnes, the honor guest and Mrs. Goodyear.

Interesting plans have been made for a social affair to be given Wednesday evening in St. Gerard's auditorium for the pleasure of the members of the parish and their friends.

The evening will be enjoyed in cards and music. A short entertainment has also been planned, which will add to the evening's pleasures.

Miss Kate Kilian and Patrick Kelly are in charge of the arrangements.

(1) As I have stated before, dear, I don't like the idea of walking with the boys but instead the manner in which you conduct yourself while in their company. It is perfectly all right for you to walk home occasionally with your boy friends and acquaintances but try not to make a habit of it. By that I mean do not wait around for them or for them to make it a point to wait for you. If you happen to meet them, all right. (2) Yes, I do. Your parents are in the wrong to permit little girls or 12 to walk the streets, Saturday night or any other night. It does not look right and I know you will be wise and stop doing it in the future. If it is necessary that you go to town on an errand, do not let or linger on the way. (4) Your writing is fair. With a little practice you will develop into a very good writer.

Allen Grubb will present a most interesting recital also at Memorial Hall.

The latter musicale is being given under the auspices of the Lima Automobile club for the pleasure of the members of the club, their families and friends.

A new device is on the market to beautify the elbows. It consists of a strap of silk gauze which holds a pad in place so that it covers the darkened and rough place one is apt to get on the elbow. The pad is saturated with bleaching cream and worn at night until the original softness and smoothness of the flesh has returned.

Faurot Offers "Nero," Spectacular Picture Filmed in Ancient Rome

BY ESTHER WAGNER

THANKSGIVING week brings to the shadow-stage devotees a veritable deluge of sparkling interesting photoplays, and if you are a wise and conscientious picture fan you will miss not a program, as announced today by alert managers. While many of the productions are in effect only until Thursday that day will usher in a splendid array of features for your holiday. The spectacular, the simple home drama and the comedy-drama are all represented on the weekly bill of fare.

Guy Bates Post in "The Masquerader" ... Starting today at the Sigma theatre.

Post has appeared on the speaking stage for several seasons, has been made into a movie, with Mr. Post in the same role. The Sigma has secured the feature for showing today and for four days, until Thursday.

foreign film, "Nero" offers a truly great and pretentious film story. The picture was made in Italy, with Miss Violet Mersereau the only American member of the cast. The production will appear at the Faurot for four days, starting today. Dorothy Dalton has a splendid role in "The Siren Call," which has at last been secured for showing in the city, and will appear at the Quilna today and until Thanksgiving. David Powell and other prominent Paramount players appear opposite the star.

"Nero," the Fox spectacle appearing today at the Faurot.

Corinne Griffith, Charles Ray, Alice Terry and Gloria Swanson are some of the stars to be seen in Lima on Thanksgiving. Miss Griffith is scheduled to appear at the Lyric theatre in a new play, "Divorce Coupons," while Charles Ray has the stellar role in First National's delightful comedy-drama, "Gas, Oil and Water."

"The Impossible Mrs. Bellew," Gloria Swanson's latest film offering, opens a three day engagement at the Quilna on Thursday.

"The Four Horsemen," from the novel by Vicente Blasco Ibanez is announced as showing at the Majestic theatre for three days, starting on Thanksgiving.

Today, Miss Constance Talmadge is the attraction at the Majestic, appearing in Anita Loos and John Emerson's comedy, "Woman's Place."

A Sherlock Holmes tale, "The Hound of the Baskervilles" opens a three day engagement today at the Rialto theatre.

The Faurot Pictures

THE latest William Fox master picture, "Nero," has been booked for four days at the Faurot Opera House. According to all accounts, this is a record-breaking production. It was received during its New York run with the highest praise from press and public and has been setting a new high mark on the box office statements around the country.

"Nero" is a wonderful spectacle. Written by Charles Sarver and Virginia Tracy. It follows the historical facts in the life of the last of the Caesars and introduces a beautiful love story in which a Roman general and a Christian princess are the principle characters.

Sensational effect of unusual merit abound in "Nero." The one that presents the most novel and impressive features is the burning of Rome. There have been fire scenes on the stage and screen by the hundreds, but it remained for William Fox to give the public the nearest approach to a genuine holocaust that has ever been presented.

J. Gordon Edwards, the famous director, spent over a year in Italy with a company made up largely of foreign actors and the scenes were filmed in and around Rome. Among the massive scenes is the interior of Nero's palace, and the marble portico from which he views the burning of Rome, while the fear-maddened populace flee for safety through the streets.

Jacques Griffith, the Nero of the cast, gives a remarkably life-like portrayal of the character. Paulette Goddard as Poppaea, Alexander Salvini as Horatius, Eddy Darcia as Acte and Violet Mersereau as Marcia are leading members of the cast.

LYRIC PRESENTING "WHERE IS MY WANDERING BOY TONIGHT"

IS DRAMA OF THROBS AND HEART GRIP

Thrills, Tears and Laughter Feature Film Story of Unusual Excellence

"WHERE is My Wandering Boy Tonight," the melodramatic offering that comes to the Lyric theatre promises an unusual treat for lovers of homey drama that gets under the skin. It is a splendidly photographed production and tells a story that touches every human heart and does it in a way to grip the interest and hold it in its clutch to the last flicker of the picture. "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight," as one can conjecture from this sentimental title, has heart interest in abundance. And the strain on the feelings is lightened at times by situations calling for quiet chuckles rather than laughter.

The dominating note is simplicity. Three of the four principals are small-town folks—the mother, her son and the latter's sweetheart—and the two former live in a cottage. The sweetheart is the employee of the town's big business man, a grocer and banker, combined. The fourth member of the quartet is a girl of the show in the city. In the situations revolving around the boy and the show girl there are flashes of Broadway life as it was in the old days—of a cabaret, with dancing girls and clinking glasses and riotous mirth.

The acting opportunities lay with the quartet outlined. Virginia True Boardman is the Mother and it is a fine and a fitting characterization she gives us of a role containing pitfalls. She will reach the heart of the boy and of the man. Cullen Landis is the Boy, Garry Beesher, and gives a strong performance. His role is that of a lad in love with a girl in his own town but also fascinated by the visiting show girl.

All in all this new picture will warm the cockles of your heart for it runs the entire gamut of human emotions, with thrills, tears and laughter.

The Sigma Pictures

"THE MASQUERADER," the first National attraction which is the current feature at the Sigma theatre, comes to the screen from the stage with a record that has probably never been equaled. For more than three years it has served as a vehicle for Guy Bates Post, following a stupendous run in the big cities, with a prolonged tour that covered every part of America, Canada and Australia.

The screen version comes to materialization with every augury of success, for it combines the same qualifications that were responsible for the triumphs given it on the stage. Richard Watson Tully, who produced the stage play, is also responsible for the cinema production, the picture making his debut in the motion picture field. Guy Bates Post resumes his accustomed role of John Chilote and John Loder. James Young directed the picture which had the discerning hand of Wilfred Buckland as art director in the arrangement of scenes and appointments.

As a special Thanksgiving program the Sigma will present Charles Ray's new production "Gas, Oil and Water," a borderland mystery tale with real Ray humor. There is plenty of romance and action, with Charlotte Pierce as the leading lady.

At the Quilna

At last, by the grace of the Ohio Board of Censors, we are to have the privilege of seeing Dorothy Dalton in her Paramount picture, "The Siren Call." The holding up of this picture by the board prevented its showing at the Quilna last month and has necessitated several changes in the Quilna's printed list of bookings. Gloria Swanson's new picture, "The Impossible Mrs. Bellew," has been shifted to the post of honor on Thanksgiving Day in place of the Ibanez picture, "Enemies of Women," which will not be released until after the New Year dawns. This shifting opens a place for "The Siren Call," which starts a four-day engagement at the Quilna this afternoon.

The scenes of "The Siren Call" are laid in the Yukon in the days of the Alaskan gold rush and in it Miss Dalton is again seen in the sort of a role in which she is inimitable. The vivacious, colorful characterization of an Alaskan dance hall girl is a sure fire Dorothy Dalton medium. She is a dazzling and daring figure in the romantic and dramatic action of the stirring story. Her support includes David Powell, Mitchell Lewis, Will Walling, Edward J. Brady, Leigh Wyant, Lucien Littlefield and George Williams. Irving Willat, the director, you will remember, is the man who produced "Behind the Door." Added features of the program will include the Quilna News and a new Accep Fable, "The Enchanted Fiddle."

Gloria Swanson in a picture whose series of brilliant scenes range from New York to Monte Carlo and Deauville promises much for the picturegoer. "The Impossible Mrs. Bellew," in which this popular star will be seen at the Quilna for three days starting Thursday is a powerful society drama in which magnificent settings and rich gowns form a background for a domestic theme that is of intense human appeal. Miss Swanson's interpretation of the title role is vested with all the qualities which have added to her vogue as a Paramount star. The supporting cast is really an extraordinary one, which you will readily admit when you are informed that it includes such popular and authoritative players as Conrad Nagel, Richard Wayne, Frank Elliott, Gertrude Astor, June Elvidge, Herbert Standing, Helen Dunbar, Arthur Hull, Clarence Burton and those clever children Mickey and Pat Moore. It is with the latter that Miss Swanson has some of her most fetching scenes. Added features of this program will include the Pathé Review.

Where is my wandering boy tonight?

Appearing today at the Lyric theatre.

The Rialto Pictures

MYSTERY thick enough to cleave with a knife enshrouds the story of "The Hound of the Baskervilles," perhaps the greatest of all the Sherlock Holmes tales that have thrilled the reading public of the world for years. "The Hound of the Baskervilles" has been vividly picturized and released by the Film Booking Offices of America, thru which the management of the Rialto theatre has procured it for exhibition here today.

"The Hound of the Baskervilles" was written years ago by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and it carries the resourceful Sherlock thru a series of adventures that would make the hair of the average man stand on end and remain in an upright position for some time.

In the picturization are presented the never-failing Sherlock, hunting down the doers of evil; the flaming hound from which the story derives its name; the devoted Watson whose sleuthing forms an outstanding feature of the story and all the other old favorites with which Sir Arthur has entertained millions for years with his novels.

The Majestic Pictures

"WOMAN'S PLACE," starring Constance Talmadge in her latest Associated First National release, will be the attraction at the Majestic Theatre, beginning today.

It is a John Emerson-Anita Loos production, having been adapted to the screen from an original story by

Alice Terry as Marguerite in 'The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse'

Coming Thanksgiving to the Majestic.

Dorothy Dalton in the Paramount Picture 'The Siren Call' will present year's master-production, "The Four Horsemen" in which Rudolph Valentino and Alice Terry have the leading roles. The picture is from the novel by Vicente Blasco Ibanez.

GOTHAM CRITICS
PRAISE 'CLOUDS'

NEW YORK dramatic reviewers without exception agreed when "Up in the Clouds" was staged at the Lyric theatre last winter that here was one of the most enjoyable and music shows that has wandered its way to Manhattan in many a moon. The Gotham critics only confirmed the opinions registered earlier in the season by Chicago penmen when the big musical play opened what proved to be a nearly half year run at the Garrick.

Ante the advent of "Up in the Clouds" to the Faurot Wednesday, December 13, it is interesting to note that Jos. M. Gaites is adhering to the policy established with his "Take It From Me," in sending the original company that was so favorably received in both the mid-west and east-ern big towns.

In commenting on "Up in the Clouds," the following excerpt from the critique of Alexander Woolcott in the New York Times is typical of all the metropolitan reviews:

"Up in the Clouds," presented by Joseph M. Gaites as a New Year's offering at the Lyric theatre, is one of the most entertaining musical comedies of the season.

There are countless tuneful melodies with a haunting lilt, a real plot, comedians that are full of pep and fun, and a collection of feminine beauties of unusual vivacity and charm.

The first-night audience filed out of the Lyric humming some of the new songs.

"Up in the Clouds" starts "on high" and hits up a lively pace until the final curtain.

FINAL WEEK FOR "RAGTIME"

Bert Smith's "Ragtime Wonders" will start their final week of their two weeks' engagement at the New Orpheum starting at today's matinee and for the first half of this week will offer "Three Twins" the original New York production of this play only in miniature form. All new stage settings will be offered and the principals of this popular company will be seen in new specialties. The Harmony Trio, will offer new selection, Vi Schaffer the Cyclonic Blue Singer will be seen at her best as will, Sue, Hale, Dick, Butler, Billy Malone, The Watson Twins and all the cast of the company. This company has taken Lima by storm and it is with regret that we learn that their engagement ends this week but Manager Shaw has the promise of Bert Smith, owner, that he will play a return engagement in the future.

For Thursday, Friday and Saturday, "Wise, Women and Song" will be the offering, and will be up to the Smith standard of shows. Seats are now on sale for Thanksgiving Day and can be secured in advance at the box office. Starting next Sunday Manager Shaw announces a big surprise attraction which will be announced in the columns of this paper later in the week but we have the word for it that it is the only attraction of its kind in the world and absolutely the first time it has ever appeared in this city and at the New Orpheum prices.

All three shows will be reserved today and can be secured in advance by phone.

URBANA, Ill.—Ohio State defeat of Illinois in an exciting and hard fought battle Saturday 6 to 0.

After battling on even terms through the first half, Illinois opened with an aerial attack the third period which carried the ball to the 10-yard line where Clark, Illinois quarterback, kicked goal for the final score of the game.

Ohio State in the final period furnished the sensation of the day when Clark, receiving the ball on a punt, roared thru the entire Illinois team for a touchdown.

Captain Wilson of Illinois and Captain Pixley of Ohio State, playing their final games, starred throughout. Line-up:

"HILLS OF WEST VIRGINIA"

PIERRE HILL, PHILIP HILL

The hills of West Virginia are playing a prominent part in the success of the Mountaineers on the gridiron.

Phil Hill is holding down center in the most approved fashion. No player that he has opposed this year has had the better of him.

Pierre Hill, at end, has made a fine showing in every game that he has gotten into.

HAWKEYES ON TOP IN BIG TEN

CHICAGO.—The great Iowa eleven Saturday night retained their western conference title. The winning over Northwestern Saturday while Chicago was held to a tie with Wisconsin, Iowa was in a tie at the head of the percentage column, with Michigan.

However, Michigan's failure to win the first game of the season from Vanderbilt, Chicago's defeat by Princeton, while Iowa triumphed over Yale, gives the Hawkeyes a clear claim.

Michigan which was every conference game, is entitled to second place and Chicago is relegated to third position.

Iowa, thru her 6 to 0 win over Yale, while Princeton, the eastern champions were forced to be satisfied with a 3 to 0 victory over the Bulldogs, gives Iowa a claim to the national championship on the dope.

ILLINOIS GUARD IS HIGHLY PRAISED COLLINS LIKES NEW YORK

PHILADELPHIA — The stories that Eddie Collins, the crack second baseman of the Chicago White Sox, will be with the New York Americans next year will not down Collins, who winters in one of the suburbs of Philadelphia, was asked what he knew about it.

"All that I know of the reported deal that is to take me to New York is what I have read in the papers," he replied.

"Would you like to play there?" was the next question put to him.

"Most any player would welcome a chance to go to New York. The Chicago fans have always treated me great and I like the city, but I certainly wouldn't offer any objections if the Sox decided to send me to New York."

"Funny thing, but from the very first day I broke into major league ball I cherished a desire to wear a New York uniform. Perhaps it was because I made my baseball start at Columbia, which is located in that city."

Columbus To See Great Bunch Of Famous Grid Players

COLUMBUS, O. — The greatest gathering of nationally known football stars ever to roam a single gridiron in an afternoon—such will be the annual grid-grad game for charity here Dec. 2, in the new Ohio Stadium, say those promoting the event.

"Eddie" Caser, wonder halfback of Harvard a few years ago, is coming. So is "Eddie" Kaw, captain of the rapid-scoring machine at Cornell this year. And the Thurman boys, Allen of Virginia, and John of Pennsylvania, guard and tackle respectively. Also George Moseley.

PIQUA TO PLAY ST. ROSE

New defensive formations will be worked up by the St. Rose quintet, following the game with St. John's Friday night, when several weak spots were discovered.

Besides new plays, which will be practiced a number of shifts in the lineup are being given attention by Coach Baker and the shifts will be tried out during the week. Buchanan may be sent into center in place of Willis, who will be shifted to forward.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

Each year at the close of the football season the annual debate takes place as to which section is supreme on the gridiron.

In my opinion there is mighty little difference between the brand of football as played in the three sections. If there is a shade, it is my belief that it belongs to the west.

Had Chicago defeated Princeton, as it was hoped to, and ordinarily would, the west would be doing a lot of crowing about this time. It would have been possible to have doped the west far superior to the east had not Chicago failed.

Chicago crossed the Princeton goal line three times on straight football, John Thomas gaining through the Tiger line at will and scoring all three touchdowns. Neither Harvard nor Yale was able to cross the Princeton line.

ARMY BEATS NAVY, W. AND J. HUMBLER BY DETROIT

GAME IS CLOSE TEAMS AFTER BEING POINTED FOR BIG GAME USUALLY GO STALE RESULT SUPRIS

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
PHILADELPHIA—One medal will not cover a flock of chests and one citation for deeds of valor in the face of the enemy will not do justice to 11 or more heroes.

When darkness had settled over the huge Pennsylvania stadium Saturday afternoon, and a few scattered snow flakes were being buffeted around by a stiff norwester, the Army eleven stunted off the field victorious for the first time in six years over a Navy team.

The score was 17 to 14.

With a voice broken down by two hours of the most virile labor in support of a team facing defeat, a gray clad cadet arose with the final blast of the whistle and whispered that he wanted to yell to the world.

"Boys, that is a TEAM."

In the parlance of Broadway, he said a mouthful.

It was a great Army team working as a team that rewarded the long vigil of West Point and the Army who had been waiting years for something more than lemon juice in the big game of the season.

One outstanding performer there was for the Army and he started because the opportunity presented by his team mates of the Army was given him to finish.

WOOD COMES THRU

"Big Bill" Wood, five foot ten and 177 pounds from Baltimore and Johns Hopkins University, scored the two Army touchdowns.

Early in the third period, with the Navy leading 7 to 3, Smythe, the Army quarterback, got away a long forward pass to White and he ran 29 yards to the Navy's one yard line.

On the next play Wood charged thru center for the first Army touchdown.

Again in the final period the fates gave Wood a good hand and he played it for all it was worth. Navy was leading 14 to 10 and it looked like nothing could save the Army from its fourth straight defeat.

Smythe then started the tide that turned the victor. He grabbed a Navy punt and ran 50 yards to Navy's ten-yard line. Over-anxiety exacted a penalty and the Army drew five yards for off side. On the next play Smythe was thrown for a 15 yard loss by Parr, the Navy end.

ARMY DESPERATE

Taking a wild chance, Smythe resorted to a forward pass instead of kicking and White grabbed the ball on the air and ran 19 yards. Smythe then made another wild heave in desperation and Wood popped up. He made a leaping catch of the ball on the goal line and fell for a touchdown with a few inches to spare. Another of those Army heroes was Garbisch, the huge end center and former Washington and Jefferson star. It was Garbisch who sprinkled the first ray of hope in a dark cloud that enveloped the Army at the start of the game. In the second period, he delivered a marvelous 45-yard placement goal against a tricky wind that put fight into the Army up to their eyes.

Everything ran in the way of modern football was tried by both the cadets and midships in the first half with the Navy having the better execution.

The middies pulled a big surprise by starting out and rushing the massive Army line off its feet in the first period. In a parade from the kick-off the superb little Steve Barchet with the help of "Shaggy" Cullen rushed the ball 60 yards thru a demoralized cadet line. Feeling their goal posts almost at their back, the West Pointers rallied and stopped the advance. The Navy was forced to try for a field goal, but it failed.

The first of five great forward passes put the Navy in a position to score early in the second period. Just as the first period was ending, Cullen got off a great 35-yard pass to Barchet which advanced the ball to the Army's 35-yard line. At the start of the second period, Barchet tossed another pass and it was intercepted only by a most brilliant feat of Taylor, the Navy end, who made a flying, leaping catch and grabbed the ball out of the arms of a waiting Army man.

MIDDIES FIGHT

McKee then skirted left end. He ran 11 yards and a touchdown followed. Barchet added the point after touchdown.

Soon after the Army got its chance to score and made good. Smythe, the great Army quarterback, grabbed a Navy punt and ran 50 yards to the Navy 30-yard line. The middies fought so fiercely that the Army lost ten yards and was forced to kick. From a distance of 45 yards, seemingly insurmountable with a tricky wind, Garbisch kicked a perfect field goal for the Army's first three points.

Outplayed and outmanned in the first half, the Army came back strong in the final half and outthought the Navy. It was a fight because the middies were desperate.

The Navy went into the four period trailing on the end of a 10 to 7 score. The middies had the ball in mid-field when Eddie Norris, a substitute back from Alabama, with a broken nose, bound up in tape, got away two passes to Cullen and Parr that advanced the Navy to the Army's five-yard mid-field. Norris then ran left end for four yards and Vincent Corrozy, the Navy captain, carried it over for a touchdown.

The time was drawing short, it looked like a sure Navy victory and

BY BILLY EVANS
In these days of intensive football, slumps are getting to be a regular part of the gridiron game. For years the word slump from a sport standpoint has been confined almost entirely to baseball. Players and teams from time to time slump in their fielding and batting, pitching staffs do the same.

When a football team is pointed for some big game the difficult thing for the coach after getting over that game is to keep his team from slumping off as a natural reaction.

Pennsylvania, after surprising the football world by defeating the strong Navy team, suffered a form reversal and lost to the Alabama eleven. When Alabama was scheduled it was looked on in the light of a practice session.

PITT SURPRISED W. J.

Washington and Jefferson is the latest big eleven to slump in its work. After its great victory over Lafayette, supporters of Washington and Jefferson were ready to make all kinds of claims for their favorite, and deservedly so. Then came the 10 to 0 defeat at the hands of University of Pittsburgh. Pittsburgh's overwhelming defeat of Washington and Jefferson came as one of the big surprises of the season. A comparison of the records made W. & J. look like a certain winner. Comparative scores, however, have received some terrific jolts this year.

FOUR SHINING STARS OF W. AND J. BACKFIELD

For instance, Lafayette beat Bucknell, 27 to 7, while the best Pittsburgh could do was a 7 to 0 score.

Since W. & J. had beaten Lafayette, Neale's team ranked as a not favorite over Pitt.

HOT AFTER WEST VIRGINIA

The Washington and Jefferson game is a big affair with Pittsburgh. Smarting under a rather unexpected 7 to 0 defeat of last year, Coach Warner undoubtedly pointed his Pitt players for the W. & J. game. Neale's team, on the other hand, seemed to be in one of the slumps that has come to be a part of the game.

The 19 to 0 defeat must have been a severe jolt to Coach Neale, who probably figured a hard game, but certainly a victory. Now it is up to Neale to restore some of the prestige lost in the Pitt game.

University of West Virginia offers a chance for W. & J. to do comeback. West Virginia has a 9 to 6 victory to its credit over Pitt. If Neale can get his team going and wallop West Virginia he will have removed some of the sting of the Pitt defeat.

W. & J. plays West Virginia on Thanksgiving Day at Morgantown, W. Va.

DETROIT—Detroit rose heights Saturday in a battle and unlooked for victory over the Washington and Jefferson. The score was 20 to 9, making outcome of one of the year's upsets in football "dope."

Duffy's men gave the indication of what was to be the second period when they into the lead thru Welch's touchdown.

The final score came fourth period when Duffy scored a touchdown with adding another three yards drop kick from the

Fumble Gives Ohio Conference Title To Wesleyan

GRANVILLE, Ohio — One big piece of luck in the last quarter was all that saved Ohio Wesleyan from defeat by Denison Saturday.

Denison had the game apparently sewed up 13 to 7 and Wesleyan looked like a sure loser in final game for Ohio conference championship.

Then Allen Denison half, hands numbered by snow fumbled. Three Wesleyan men were atop him instantly, one seizing the ball and running 30 yards for touchdown. Kicking foul made the final score Wesleyan 14, Denison 13.

With four minutes play remaining, Denison desperately tried to score with forward pass. Although she completed them and made yardage repeatedly, she was unsuccessful.

Wesleyan scored in the first quarter when Winters, star half-back got away with good interference and ran 40 yards for a touchdown.

In the second period, Willis, of Washington County House, Denison's back, made football history by taking a kick from Winters and running back from his own 40-yard line, thru the entire Wesleyan team, bowling opposing players over like pins as he went and winding up behind Wesleyan's goal posts.

Wesleyan blocked Willis' kick for an extra point.

Shortly thereafter the other individual star of the game, Paul Line, of Cambridge, Denison's left end, distinguished himself by taking a forward pass from Willis and running over 40 yards for a second touchdown.

Lynes' brilliant tackling thruout the game stopped Winters, Wesleyan's star runner.

Wesleyan was outplayed thruout on passing and only lucky breaks in the final quarter won the game.

CASE UPSETS DOTE

CLEVELAND, — Case upset all predictions here Saturday by defeating Ohio Northern University by the margin of a goal after touchdown.

The two eleven's fought up and down the field until the third period, before Ohio Northern scored a touchdown on a forward pass. But a pass for the extra point failed in the field period. Case used the forward pass and scored a touchdown. Morris, Case's left guard, kicked goal for the winning point.

CARNEGIE TECH IS NOSED OUT BY NOTRE DAME

PITTSBURG — Carnegie Tech Saturday fell below the great Notre Dame eleven by the score of 19 to 0.

The Catholics of South Bend completely outplayed the plucky Tech team which was on the defensive thruout the contest.

Two of Notre Dame's touchdowns resulted from their forward passing attack. The speedy Notre Dame backs repeatedly rounded the end for long gains, while the charging of the visitors' forwards prevented Tech's heralded offense to materialize.

Delphos-Wapakoneta Classic Arousing Huge Interest

Sport activity in Delphos this week will be confined to the football classic between Jefferson high and Blume high, of Wapakoneta, unless the management of the St. John's cage team succeeds in booking a game for Tuesday night.

Advance sale of tickets for the grid battle indicates a crowd of 1,500. It will be the piece de resistance in the local sport realm this season.

Wapak, the only team in the path of Jefferson high in its drive down the season homestretch to a record of six straight victories.

It was at Wapakoneta a month ago that the Jeffersonians got a leg-up on its winning streak, by winning 27 to 19. Delphos had previously defeated the weak Continental team after losing three straight, but the result was discounted because of when Delphos defeated Wapakoneta fans began taking notice.

Man for man, Jefferson high played a superior game. The Delphos boys were more nifty in the pinches, while Wapakoneta seemed to falter at the crisis. The Delphos gridgers have improved 50 per cent since that game and are believed to have absorbed enough additional football to offset anything Blume high may have taken on.

The Red and White has a record for the season of five victories, all of which came in a row, against three defeats. Delphos has secured revenue for all defeats except a 12-0 drubbing administered by St. Marys, Convey and Van Wert were the two other schools to win, but Jefferson trounced both of them in the last three weeks. Delphos will be unable to play a second game with St. Marys.

A 12-6 defeat suffered by Wapakoneta at the hands of the Van Wert eleven Saturday is regarded as significant. The Red and White pasted Van Wert 19 to 12 three weeks ago.

Girls of D. H. S. will serve a lead to the gridgers Thursday evening.

Two St. John's teams may oppose each other on the Delphos floor Tuesday night in this week's only cage bill. St. John's quintet, O. Delphos, will probably play the St. John's five of Lima.

Owing to its possibility of staging a game either on Thursday or Friday night, Manager Hilary Sheible, cast out lines in the direction of the Lima team for Tuesday. Acceptance is expected Sunday or Monday.

The team might become stale during the enforced layoff, Shelby fears. As St. John's has a game definitely booked for two weeks, he is looking all quints possible for the near future.

The Lima team is composed of Norbert Zarley, one of the forwards of last season's team, Miller, Falk Vansky and several others.

Plushed with their 25 to 9 victory over St. Rose Friday night, the Blue and Gold eagles are eagerly seeking other fives to add to their string, but no immediate prospects loom. Two of the most exciting tilts—return games with Decatur, Ind., and St. Rose—will not come until the latter part of December.

The management announced it is seeking Decatur for December 26 and has already booked the Lima aggregation for December 29.

TWO MENT MAY QU

Two veteran coaches from active grid work at the present season.

They are "Hurricane" 21 years football coach at and A. A. Stagg, who for has guided the Chicago Both will doubtless co-director of athletics at the Yost made Michigan its "point a minute" years ago. He has done things for western football more than entitled to which is his.

Recently, however, he announced that he will not coach next year. All he is a championship team which ties for the title.

George Little, former Mtor, and Weisman are men to take over the coach at Michigan.

It seems a good year for coaches.

Both their teams have to go thru without defeat with Iowa.

And Chicago does Illinois, so the old fierceness which existed between coaches back a few years no chance to spoil their a few years ago George Little, gave up active coaching and became a director of that office that time for nothing else.

That is what Yost much the same condition the University of Chicago Stagg is a conscientious and coach. He is a stick and the two jobs are for one man.

And he was a great player picked by Walter Camp of all-America ever selected. Should both these veteran retire it would not mean conference has lost the athletic directors they even more good for the Charlie Paddock, sprinter records for five sprints down by the A. A. U. stop watches made to parts of a second.

Many Hard Fights Are Ahead Of New Welterweight Champ

NEW YORK, — "Hope you hold it as long as I did," Jack Britton told young Mickey Walker, when the judges handed the Jersey youth the welterweight championship after their recent bout.

"Hope I do and wish I could be as good a champion as you've been," the proud little "Mike" said.

Not that young Walker did not earn the decision which gave him the championship and not that it is not a fine thing, but the task of filling the shoes of grand old Jack Britton is too much to expect of any of the modern school of boxers or fighters.

Britton was one in a thousand and thousands come in revolutions of generations. The former champion may not compare to the rough style of bruising predecessors who made names before him, but he was first in the school of scientific boxing.

If the "art of defense" is to be accepted as something more than an alibi for prize fighting, Britton was one of the greatest of all times because he was a great master at it.

Walker happened along when age had taken so much fire and energy from the veteran champion that he was ready to be dethroned by the first good youngster who could not be outwitted and outtalked Walker just happened along.

In a division that is rapidly swelling with promising youngsters, Mickey Walker has anything but an easy road ahead of him if he chooses to stay out of a shell and become a fighting champion, something that is a rarity in these commercial days.

Any young champion who has George Ward, Dave Shad, Andy Thomas and several others ahead of him has no long time title to the Hopkins, Maryland and Virginia.

crown ahead of him, unless he has a lot of stuff.

There is also a young sensation out in Cincinnati who has never appeared in the east—Billy Ryan, who broke into the game as a sparring partner with Britton. Before his dethronement, Britton rated Ryan as the most dangerous man in the class.

Low Tandler, the Philadelphia southpaw, has already announced his intention to invade the welterweight class and with the opportunity of making the weight he wants Tandler is one of the most dangerous young men in the ring.

Denny Leonard, the lightweight champion, not only wants to stretch out into the welterweight division but he has already tried out, unsuccessfully as it turned out, in an unsatisfactory bout with Britton.

K. OF C. TOURNEY IS POPULAR

Bowling is becoming a popular sport among the women of Lima, if the number of entries in the mixed doubles tournament, started last week at the Recreation alleys is any criterion.

Over fifty couples entered the tournament and plans are already being made for a second tourney of the same kind. Matches will be played off Tuesday and Wednesday night at 7 and 9 o'clock.

Princeton, N. J. — The "Daily Princetonian" suggested editorially that Cornell, Dartmouth, Williams and Amherst be placed on the 1922 Princeton schedule instead of Johns Hopkins, Maryland and Virginia.

BUSINESS COLLEGE WINS CLOSE GAME

The Lima Business college five nosed out Spencerville Friday night in a fast, exciting game, winning 20 to 19.

The battle was fast and furious from start to finish and the winning basket was made in the last few minutes of play. Wildermuth took shooting honors of the evening, sending four field baskets thru the net during the game.

The Business college team will play its next game December 6, at the Y. M. C. A., meeting Springfield lineup.

KEY TO SOLUTION
The "missing Cinderella," wearer of the chamouis glove near the body, was believed certain to hold the key to the solution of the crime. It was she, police believed, who telephoned the garage a few minutes after the shooting and asked:

"Is that you, Joe?" and hung up when a police officer asked her identity.

The business quarrel theory was supported by a majority of the investigators Saturday night on the strength of the stories of Lanus' huge fortune which his secretary told police had been largely acquired in recent years thru his sharp and merciless policy in dealing with customers.

ENGAGEMENT DENIED
CINCINNATI - (United Press)
—A woman did not kill "Handsome Joe" Lanus, Lillionaire automobile dealer, Magel Gray, Bromley, Ky., beauty mentioned as his fiance, de-

"Joe probably was killed by a man who wanted his jewels and his money. I believe the chamels glove found by his side was put there by the man who killed him to make it look like a woman's work." Miss Gray said.

She denied being engaged to Lanus, describing him as "an old friend of my family."

Miss Gray said she and Lanus had an understanding that they were to be "just friends."

She said she had been with Lanus on one occasion when he was robbed by highwaymen.

"He wore large diamonds," Miss Gray said, "and of course hold-up men singled him out. I think robbery was the motive of his murder."

LONDON HITS BACK AT CLEMENCEAU

Declares Tiger's Statement About German Fleet Untrue

WASHINGTON — (United Press) —Great Britain Saturday joined the United States senate in attacking statements made by Georges Clemenceau in his speech-making tour of the United States. Acting upon authorization from the foreign office in London, the British embassy here issued a statement declaring untrue the former French premier's reported statement that the British allowed the German crews to sink

"M. Clemenceau is reported in the press as having stated in a speech made by him on November 21 at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, that Great Britain let it (the German fleet) go to the bottom of Scapa Flow and thus secured her superiority," the statement said.

The British embassy is authorized to declare that any suggestion that the British government wilfully allowed the German fleet to be sunk is not only untrue, but without any possible foundation in fact. By the terms of the armistice, in the negotiations for which France was one of the principals, the British authorities were not permitted to search German ships on the high seas, and they were therefore unable to take any measures to prevent the German crews opening the sea-cocks. The British authorities' powers were confined to ensuring that the fleet did not steam out to sea or open fire. A statement in the above terms was issued by the British government on June 21, 1919, a few hours after the German fleet had been sunk."

END OF BEAR RAIDS ON STOCKS SEEN

Better Market Tone for This Week Is Predicted

OUTLOOK IS ENCOURAGING

Demand for Building Material Reaches Large Proportion

NEW YORK. — (United Press) — End of a bear campaign was seen on the New York stock exchange Saturday, following a week of near normal trading.

The market failed to gain much, likewise it did not depreciate. Most factors that caused recent falls were proven manufactured out of whole cloth.

Lull in business momentum, was credited to the November completion of crop movements and sale of a great deal of bank collateral in the east.

A better tone in the market as a whole, was predicted for next week. Retail business reports continued to predict a great holiday trade, while demand for building material reached a large proportion despite a reported car shortage.

Pressure in grain and cotton prices presaged a growing purchasing power by the farmer and planter.

STATE PROBE

Conditions existing at the District Tuberculosis hospital may be brought to the attention of Attorney General John J. Price as a last resort in an effort to investigate its affairs.

Such was the announcement made by Allegheny commissioners Saturday, in commenting on failure of other county boards to back them up in launching a probe.

Commissioner A. J. Gray, declared that he is of the opinion the matter ought to be pushed.

The controversy between Dr. C. A. Files, superintendent, and the trustees should be cleared up, he said. Gray is of the opinion that the trustees have nothing on which to base actual charges against the superintendent, and so have fallen back on the plea of lavish expenditures and waste to oust him.

TRUSTEES IN CHARGE

The trustees are in active charge of the institution, Gray said. All bills pass thru their hands. Dr. Files, he believes, acted under orders of the trustees in making purchases.

Report of the inspection of the accounts of the institution, made by J. S. Main, state examiner, has not been received to date. It was not included in the report on county offices forwarded to Prosecuting Attorney Eugene T. Lippincott and Auditor C. R. Phillips recently.

The report is relied on to show the truth or falsity of the statements of Dr. J. M. Patterson, Allegheny trustee, that Dr. Files' administration has been wasteful.

Patterson has repeatedly denied that he was active in forcing Files' resignation October 16, for the purpose of landing the vacancy.

REMOVAL BLOCKED

Patterson cannot be removed as trustee, it was learned Saturday unless a majority of the commissioners in the district are favorable. At the meeting Friday, a majority of the commissioners were opposed to probing the matter, changing the personnel of the board.

Allegheny commissioners expressed themselves as favoring the discharge of all trustees and starting out with an entirely new board.

A second effort to sift matters may be made later at a joint commissioners meeting called for the purpose, Commissioner John Thompson said. Friday's meeting was called at the instance of Commissioner Walter W. Craig, chairman of the joint board.

KILLED IN CRASH

Ohioan Dies When Train Hits Football Party

COLUMBUS. — (United Press) — One man was killed and two were severely hurt when a Pennsylvania train crashed into a football party at Lewis Center, 15 miles north of here, Saturday afternoon.

Harold Carlisle, 24, Bucyrus automobile dealer, was killed instantly. The injured are Dr. W. G. Carlisle, brother of the dead man, and Walter Patton, Bucyrus Y. M. C. A. secretary.

The trio was enroute by automobile to the Wesleyan-Denison game at Granville, when the train crashed into them.

The train crew took the victims aboard and brought them to Columbus. Dr. Carlisle and Patton are in a hospital here.

Carlisle was not married. He went to Bucyrus from Hillsboro a month ago to enter the automobile business.

CHARLES CHAPLIN LIKES FOREIGN WOMEN BEST

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — While refusing to discuss his "personal affairs" in a deuce, Charlie Chaplin admitted Saturday that his personal preference is for foreign women.

This, you understand has no connection with any rumors relating with himself and Milla De la Negra, whom he conceded for the sake of argument, to be one of the most delightful of foreign women.

Objectively speaking, aside from any personal predilections, Chaplin admitted himself to be one of the most ardent admirers of the Polish tragedienne.

American women, he said, lack personality. They are becoming standardized by the following of the leader spirit and too little association with men.

BANK DEBITS

Bank debits this week were $3,418, 97c.24 while the debits last week were $4,016.73.05.
